

Washington Sees Success in Probe Of German Tangle

President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes Preparing for American Participation in Venture.

ALL POWERS INVITED
WILL AID IN PROBE

J. P. Morgan, or One of His Firm, Will Be One of America's Representatives, It Is Predicted.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, October 30.—Fully convinced that the coming reparations inquiry will open the avenue to a settlement of Europe's paramount problem, President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes are now chiefly concerned with details of the new venture.

At the white house it was announced Tuesday that all of the powers concerned had accepted the Hughes proposal. Great Britain is expected to notify this government of this fact officially, as it was Lord Curzon's note which brought the question up again. The state department is expecting this communication soon and will then designate the American member of the commission. Each government may be asked to send more than one representative. J. P. Morgan, or one of his firm, is almost certain to be selected.

Meantime the reparations commission has decided to form an expert committee to report on methods of payment for Germany. This is a formality which accords with Premier Poincaré's stipulation that the inquiry must be conducted under the auspices of the reparations commission.

Plans Will Be Laid Out.

Once the commissioners are assembled in Paris, with their expert assistants, the plan of procedure will be laid out. The first thing will be a complete survey of Germany's present and potential capacity to pay. That is, the committee will send its investigators into every bank in Germany for a study of assets, will investigate the productive capacity of the iron and coal mines, and their probable deposits, the capacity of factories, chemical plants, the agricultural resources, the foreign trade prospects of the nation, and any other field which might throw light upon how much Germany can pay.

Lloyd George, discussing this question here several days ago, emphasized that what Germany must find out was that Germany can pay the bill, which is a vastly different matter from what she can pay internally. Germany can pay the bill in goods and securities. She will have to sell beyond her borders in sufficient quantities to create a margin of profit which can be turned over toward her reparations debt.

Will Make Reports.

While the commission will have no power other than to report, it probably will recommend a German loan contingent upon adoption of its proposed schedule of reparations payments by the allies. The experts will argue that if Germany's obligations are fixed at a figure within her power to pay, the powers could safely join in an international loan which would enable Germany to get her finances back in the realm of respectability. Out of this would come sufficient productive capacity to sustain the regular reparations payments which Germany has been defaulting.

Here is the half which the experts hope to be able to dangle before France. They will set this prospect of a steady stream of payments from Germany against that of an indefinite continuation of the existing guerrilla warfare, which is producing no money.

RAILROADS FIGHT PRESIDENT'S PLAN FOR LOWER RATES

President Coolidge Had Suggested Revision of Freight Rates on Coal and Grain.

COMMITTEE TO TAKE
MESSAGE TO COOLIDGE

Railroads Take the View That Reduction Would Not Help Farmers Get Rid of Their Grain.

New York, October 30.—Presidents and other executives of every grain or coal-hauling railroad in the country today drafted what was unofficially reported to be an unfavorable reply to President Coolidge's recent proposal for revision of rail freight rates on shipments of these two commodities which were destined for export.

A committee of the presidents was named to submit the drafted reply to the president at Washington, by Thursday, or earlier if they could be received at the white house.

Would Not Aid Farmers.

While the contents of the draft were withheld to await the wishes of President Coolidge in regard to publication, several of the executives who helped draft it said it was based on a conviction that lowering rates on grain for export would not create an increased market for wheat in Europe and therefore would not help lift the American farmer out of the slough of over-production.

The rail executives were chary about revealing their attitude toward the president's proposal that freight rates on coal for export be raised to more nearly the level of rates on coal for home consumption. When the conference opened, however, it was generally agreed that the traffic vice presidents of the biggest eastern roads had stated the case in session a week ago when they declared that coal freight rates had been as nearly equalized as was possible.

Confers With President.

The president's suggestions, made to Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, during a recent interview at the white house, were believed to have been aimed at stimulation of the foreign grain trade to the benefit of the wheat farmer. Elimination of wide differentials on coal rates was presumed to have been intended as a check on the foreign demand for American fuel, which would result in a more bountiful supply for local consumers.

Mr. Rea called the conference today, which was by invitation to individual roads and not an official session of any of the recognized national railway system. Fifty railway executives were in attendance, mostly from the roads east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio river. Far western and southern roads were represented by group chiefs of the Association of Railway Executives.

The witness testified that Forbes had appeared "very belligerent" against the Excelsior Springs project, but denied that he had been ordered out of Forbes' office here, but said he frequently had been compelled to wait many hours outside of the office without ever getting opportunity to see Forbes.

On Verge of Collapse.

"When you saw Colonel Forbes, was there bitterness of feeling on his part and yours?" asked Senator Reed, but the question never was answered as Morse appeared on the verge of a collapse and the recess was ordered.

Morse told the committee that he had informed Forbes that if he continued to spend in new construction at the hospital the amount required of him under the legal contract and the government then failed him he "would be busted." He added that in an interview with the late Charles H. Cramer, head of the legal division of the bureau in 1922, he had been told that it had been decided to turn the

Mexican Deputy Killed in Clash In Chamber Lobby

Mexico City, October 30.—(By The Associated Press.)—One deputy was killed when rioting broke out in the chamber of deputies late today when the Huertista and Callista factions clashed in the lobbies. Guillermo Zetina, a supporter of Francisco de la Huerta, former secretary of the treasury, was killed.

The session had been suspended because of a lack of a quorum. The spectators were emptying the galleries amid the usual cries and the brandishing of revolvers, some of which were thrown to deputies below when the police attempted to disarm the principal rioters.

When the factions met at the main entrance to the lobby, furious fighting in which fists and canes were used, followed. There also was some shooting before the police came up and ended the disturbance.

Jose German, leader of the Callista faction, was taken into custody charged with having killed Zetina.

"Dollar Diplomacy" Urged To Recoup Losses of War

NEW YORK, October 30.—If the United States would embark wholeheartedly on a policy of "dollar diplomacy," the future would be brighter for all the 1,700,000,000 inhabitants of the earth, John Hays Hammond, chairman of the federal coal commission and internationally known developer of the resources of backward nations, told the American Management association at tonight's session of its annual convention.

An American commission of financial experts would do more than any mixed group of international envoys to determine what reparations Germany could pay; would start Europe working to recoup the loss of the world war and would lay the foundations for perpetual world peace, said Mr. Hammond.

"Trade follows a nation's dollar as surely as it follows its flag," he said. "What has been stigmatized as the 'missionary gunboat' is happily passed. Dollar diplomacy attended to that."

His proposal, covered in 14 points, started with a suggestion that an international high court of equity be established to rule on controversies on through "dollar diplomacies" with its decisions "published throughout the world, to constitute a powerful deterrent to dishonest practices."

POLITICS BLOCKS PLAN TO ABANDON HOSPITAL PROJECT

Congressional Influence Used To Force the Purchase of Site Declared To Be Unsuitable.

Washington, October 30.—Congressional influence was brought to bear to block a plan of the Veterans' bureau to abandon the projected tuberculosis hospital at Excelsior Springs, Mo., the senate investigating committee was told today by E. L. Morse, prominent in republican politics in Missouri, and manager in that state of the Lowden campaign for the republican presidential nomination in 1920. Morse subsequently sold the plan to the government for $116,100.

The property consisted of the Morse homestead and ten additional acres and was leased to the government under an agreement which it has been charged before the committee was rushed through by Ewing Laphore, then assistant secretary of the treasury, on the last day of the Wilson administration despite recommendations from the public health service that the place was not suitable for a hospital. Further adverse reports were made by medical men, the evidence showed, and in June, 1922, the Veterans' bureau decided to abandon the project.

Used His Influence.

Morse testified that when he was notified of this decision he came to Washington to use his influence with senators and representatives, who pressed to the bureau. He said he saw fifteen senators and that one of them, Senator Burren, republican, New Mexico, took the matter to the white house. Later the sale was consummated.

Morse was on the stand today for more than two hours and near the close of his testimony he appeared to be on the verge of a physical collapse with a result that the committee recessed for fifteen minutes. At the time he was being asked by Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, the chairman, questions prepared by counsel for Charles R. Forbes, former director of the bureau, and relating to conferences with Forbes.

The witness testified that Forbes had appeared "very belligerent" against the Excelsior Springs project, but denied that he had been ordered out of Forbes' office here, but said he frequently had been compelled to wait many hours outside of the office without ever getting opportunity to see Forbes.

On Verge of Collapse.

"When you saw Colonel Forbes, was there bitterness of feeling on his part and yours?" asked Senator Reed, but the question never was answered as Morse appeared on the verge of a collapse and the recess was ordered.

KLAN TRIAL HERE BARES MER ROUGE PROBE INCIDENTS

Klan's Plans for Stopping Floggings in Oklahoma Disclosed on Stand by Wizard Evans.

E. Y. CLARKE DECLINES LEADERSHIP OF KLAN

Charges Nationwide Plot by Foes To Ruin Him and Declares He Will Fight.

How a Ku Klux Klan campaign of education in Oklahoma was planned in a hotel room at Asheville, N. C., and happenings in connection with the Mer Rouge incident of last winter when an investigation of the deaths of Watt Daniel and T. J. Richard was under way, featured depositions and affidavits read Tuesday in Fulton superior court in the hearing in the case of H. M. Rittenhouse, of Philadelphia, and others, seeing a receipt for the organization.

Dr. H. W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, in a deposition taken at the Imperial place here on October 4, told of the campaign planned for Oklahoma and discussed various matters connected with the Klan and with Oklahoma and J. N. Littlejohn, formerly a Klan investigator, told of the Mer Rouge incidents.

A side issue of more than usual importance was the giving out by Edward Young Clarke, former head of the propagation department and imperial wizard, prior to the election of Dr. Evans, of a letter to William Joseph Simmons, emperor of the Klan, declining to become leader of the Simmons faction and of one to Dr. Evans, communicating his refusal to call a meeting of the committee on national program of which he is chairman. He gave as his reason in both instances alleged discovery of a national conspiracy against him, asserting that all of his time would be required to fight it.

Deposition Read.

Attorney Colquhoun, one of the attorneys representing the plaintiffs in the action, read the deposition of Dr. Evans. The imperial wizard was asked first about the gathering in the hotel room at Asheville. He said that Paul Etheridge, N. B. Forrest, of Atlanta; C. J. Orsborn, Indianapolis; C. A. Comer, of Little Rock, Ark. and himself, were in the room. The gathering was during a Klondike meeting in the North Carolina city.

He said in response to a series of questions that the situation in Oklahoma, where Governor J. C. Walton had said there had been 2,500 whippings, was discussed. "Feeling that kind of situation ought to be remedied," he said, "and an institution founded upon the teachings of justice, obedience and patriotism ought to get behind the officers of the law to the extent of putting on a campaign."

Liners Jammed With Immigrants Rushing to U. S.

Whole Week May Be Needed To Complete the Examinations.

New York, October 30.—Sixteen liners with approximately 18,000 alien passengers will have raced to their anchorages below quarantine by tomorrow midnight, when the November immigration quota will open.

Special interest is attached to the November rush, as quota allotments of some nations will be exhausted until next July 1, as special permission had been given some steamship companies to land 20 per cent of the entire national quota monthly since last July.

Because of the congestion here, several other liners with 10,000 additional immigrants have been diverted to other ports. The number of alien passengers to be received here is so great that it may be a week, immigration officials said, before the last could be examined.

The Greek liner steamship Byron, fined $200,000 by the government for entering a port a few minutes before the September immigration quota became effective, arrived today in Gravesend bay with 1,600 immigrants in advance of the incoming fleet.

The ports to which some of the ships have been diverted are Boston, Providence, Philadelphia and Portland, Maine.

JOHNSON'S BOOM FOR PRESIDENCY ABOUT TO BLOOM

Decision To Jump Into Race Hastened by Coolidge's Venture Into the Reparations Situation.

Washington, October 30.—The presidential boom of Senator Hiram Johnson is about to burst into full bloom with A. D. Lasker, former chairman of the United States shipping board and an intimate friend of the late President Harding, as the challenger of the exchequer. Lasker constitutes Coolidge's first loss out of the political estate he inherited from Harding.

Lasker was associated with Johnson's 1920 campaign but went over to Harding after the nomination. He now returns to his first love and will set about at once to raise a campaign chest. Lasker would like to assume general management of Johnson's political fortunes during the coming year, but feels that it would be better for him to concentrate on the money-raising job and leave the politics to other hands.

Decision Is Hastened.

Johnson's decision to jump at once was hastened by the administration's venture into the reparations row. It raises the old issue of isolation vs. interference in European political affairs. This is Johnson's red meat. He was fairly well hog-tied by the administration on domestic affairs. He supported the Fordney-McCumber tariff, and conveniently missed the train that would have put him in Washington just in time to vote on the ousting of Newberry.

But here is a situation in which Johnson fairly revels. He will charge the administration with violating the mandate of the voters in 1920, which he interprets as a command to keep the United States out of Europe. It brings him into a battle with Secretary of State Hughes, who is one of Johnson's choice targets.

Johnson counts on the support of some of the old irreconcilable battalion in the senate. But the full-back of that squad will be missing—Senator Borah, of Idaho. He is not in sympathy with anything that is done under the treaty of Versailles, but he has pleaded for a world economic conference for many months and feels unable to raise his voice against this effort, which he recognizes as being the best that could be made under the circumstances. Furthermore, Borah has long since jumped off the Johnson band wagon and is going it alone at the moment. He is up for reelection in Idaho next year and some of his friends have detected growing symptoms of party regularity as the time of that fight draws nearer.

Sensors May Be Slow.

Other senators will be somewhat slow in joining the west coast insurgent movement at this time. First they want to see how the present effort abroad comes out before condemning it. Secondly, they do not want to fight the administration until the political situation becomes a little more definite. Coolidge is still regarded as a candidate for the nomination. If he appears likely to get away with it, the wise politicians, who make their living at politics, will stick close under his wing.

Representative Fred A. Britten, of Illinois, takes issue with his white house chief and urges that the United States build up a league of American interests of involving itself in Europe again.

"I have made six trips to Europe since the armistice, because as a result of my observations over there I am more than ever convinced that Europe is no place for the United States to involve itself," Britten declared.

T. M. Sams Drives Truck Headon Into Oglethorpe Car on Peachtree Road Tuesday Night.

DIES AT HOSPITAL 48 OF FRACTURED SKULL

Member of Prominent Family—Ran General Store Near Cumming. On Way Home, Killed.

Death ended the homeward dash of T. M. Sams, 39, Cumming merchant, early Tuesday night when he crashed his speeding delivery truck head-on into an inbound Oglethorpe street car on Peachtree road near government hospital No. 48.

A misting rain was falling as the collision occurred and, it is believed, obscured Sams' vision as he drove out Peachtree road, following the car rails. Just before the impact, witnesses said, brakes were applied to the truck, but it slid with terrific momentum along the wet rails and smashed into the front end of the street car.

Sams was carried quickly to the government hospital for attention, but he died without regaining consciousness. A post-mortem examination showed his skull to be fractured. Witnesses to the accident declared that the truck was without light. It was loaded with provisions and was almost completely demolished.

Blames Wet Paving.

R. E. Stoner, motorman of the truck which collided with the street car, stated that the truck had no lights and that it was very heavily loaded. "Wet and slippery pavement have been blamed for the inability of the driver to turn from the car tracks. C. E. Piller was the conductor on the street car."

"The automobile was making good time, and I was coming to a stop at the time of the accident," Stoner stated. "There were no other occupants of the machine. As well as I could tell, the truck was making about 35 miles an hour."

The track at this point is single and the automobile was riding well into the middle of the road, witnesses said and both the car and the truck were making efforts to stop at the time of the accident.

Runs General Store.

Sams is a merchant, who runs a general store about 8 miles from Cumming, and it is presumed that he was returning to the store with additional stock. He is from a prominent family of Cumming.

Mrs. Sams, widow of the deceased, was formerly Miss Mammie Hawkins, popular Cumming girl. The Hawkins family is one of the most prominent of that section of the state.

Other survivors beside his widow are four sons, Durrell, Ralph, Hoyt and Frank; three sisters, Mrs. J. E. Durham, of Canton, Ga., Mrs. Ed Estes, of Cumming, and Mrs. Thad Brantlett, of Amber, Okla., and a brother, A. Sams, of Canton.

The body will be taken to Cumming by Barclay & Brandon this morning. Interment will be at Friendship burial cemetery Thursday, Rev. J. M. Anderson officiating.

START THURSDAY ON DODGE SCHOOL

Exercises incident to the laying of the cornerstone for the new chapel for the St. Simons Vocational Training School for Boys, on St. Simons Island, will be held at noon Thursday, it was announced Tuesday in Atlanta.

This building, it is expected, will be the nucleus of a new educational plant which will provide for many Georgia boys who would otherwise miss their opportunity to learn the foundations of successful life and good citizenship.

The ceremonies on Thursday will be elaborate, yet marked with that simplicity which is always most impressive.

Governor to Seal Stone. Governor Clifford Walker and many other notables will be present. A copy of the deed to the school property, totaling 2000 acres, and given by Mrs. Anna Dodge, founder of the school, will be placed in a steel box beneath the foundation stone. Other valuable and trinkets with sentimental association will be put in this box by Mrs. Dodge. Governor Walker will personally place the deed in the box and will lay the cornerstone, sealing it down with cement.

In addition to the governor, who will make a thirty-minute address, other speakers will include Judge W. A. Covington, of Moultrie, Will Venable, of Moultrie, and others. The Mason Board of Trade will send representatives of the Central City for the occasion.

The board of trustees for the new school has been named and consists of seven preceding officials of different Atlanta banks. These will all be present. The governor is ex-officio a member of this board and, whenever a member dies, the governor then in office will name his successor.

Advisory Board Named.

Twenty other prominent citizens of the state, both men and women, have been named to form an advisory board for the institution.

This new educational undertaking starts off under peculiarly auspicious circumstances. The new chapel is being given to the school by John A. Metcalf, Atlanta business man, and the construction work is being commenced with sufficient funds in the bank to the school's credit to complete the work.

DALEY AND DALEY IN NEW OFFICES; PEEBLES PARTNER

Announcement has been made by the well known law firm of Daley & Daley of the removal of their offices from the Trust Company of Georgia building to the new McGraw-Hill building, recently completed at the corner of Luckie and Fairlie streets. At the same time a change in the style of the firm is also announced. It will be known in the future under the name of Daley, Daley & Peebles.

242 "SOFT DRINK" PARLORS CLOSED TO "DRY" CHICAGO

Chicago, October 30.—Mayor William E. Dever returned to his office today from a ten-day vacation in Excelsior Springs, Mo., with signed orders revoking the licenses of 242 "soft drink" parlors, which brings to 1,528 the total number of places closed by the mayor's campaign to dry up the city.

JUDGE PRESCRIBES MEDICINE NEEDED FOR UNHAPPY PAIR

Chicago, October 30.—Judge Sabath negotiated a contract calling for six months of happy married life Tuesday when he induced Fred C. Hanson and his wife, Margaret, to sign on the dotted line.

Afterward Mrs. Hanson withdrew her separate maintenance suit to give the written agreement a trial.

Hanson promised to turn over his pay check to his wife regularly, to quit drinking moonshine and to stay at home every night. Mrs. Hanson also agreed to spend the evenings at home and to be economical, furnishing her husband with a family financial statement monthly.

MEXCANS SWAP SHOTS IN DEPUTIES' CHAMBER

Mexico City, October 30.—Shots were exchanged between rival participants in the galleries of the chamber of deputies last evening during a political debate involving orators of the Calles and de la Huerta factions. One man was wounded.

Release Confirmed.

Pekin, October 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—Dispatches from Kainfeng, capital of Honan province, tend to confirm the report that the Misses Mary Darroch and Mary R. Sharp, British missionaries held captive by bandits for more than a month, have been released. It was stated that the women are being escorted to Juchow, a city in the central part of the province.

Raisa Alone Makes Success Of First Music Club Event

Madame Rosa Raisa, dramatic soprano of the Chicago Opera company, last night won for herself a very warm place in the hearts of Atlanta music lovers.

The occasion was the opening concert of the 1923-24 Civic Concert series, sponsored by the Atlanta Music club, and the place, the auditorium. Giacomo Rimini, baritone, likewise of the Chicago Opera company, had been billed as the associate artist with Raisa, but a severe cold had resulted in physicians' orders that he not leave his room. Hence the entire burden of the program fell upon Madame Raisa—and it is doubtful if any singer could have carried off so difficult a situation more gracefully, more acceptably, or with as great good nature.

Has Range and Power. Her voice is a rich soprano, remarkable for its range and power. There have been sopranos in Atlanta, on one or two occasions, notably with the Metropolitan Grand Opera company, whose voices to a student were a study in vocal range and power. Madame Raisa—and it is doubtful if any singer could have carried off so difficult a situation more gracefully, more acceptably, or with as great good nature.

There were probably about twelve hundred people in the auditorium all told. Despite the unfortunate absence of one or two of the artist's singers, the concert, saved entirely by Madame Raisa's generosity of her voice, was a most auspicious opening for the winter season.

The next concert in this series will be on November 28, when Ignace Paderewski, world's greatest pianist, will be the attraction.

Heir to Fortune Dies Bumping Ride Back Home

New York, October 30.—Mrs. Elizabeth Murray, awaiting the arrival of the body of her brother, Frank Fox, today told the story of a prodigal who could have written a check for thousands, but who died a tramp, killed at Lufkin, Texas, last Saturday night while "bumming" a ride on a freight train.

Dispatches from Lufkin last night told of the identification of the body by T. C. Murphy, of Cuero, Texas, who told the authorities that Fox, known to him as Harry O'Neill, had appeared on his farm a month ago and begged for shelter and rest. He improved in health and soon after he disappeared from the farm Murphy received communications from Brooklyn lawyers telling him that the ragged tramp he had housed was the heir to a large estate.

Today, seated in her bungalow home at Brighton Beach, Mrs. Murray filled in the background of the picture, telling of the twelve weary years her brother had wandered over the face of the earth, with fortunes up and down. When the end came Fox was stealing a ride back to Brooklyn—back to his sister and, although he didn't know it, back to a life of ease and to a third share in the fortune of his uncle, who died this year.

"Frank was a lovely boy," Mrs. Murray said. "Lovable, but he had the wanderlust. He was born in Brooklyn 43 years ago and for a time had a plumbing shop. But he couldn't stay still. He gave up his business twelve years ago and went to Chicago."

"He wrote for a time and then stopped. We hadn't heard from him in all these years. Early this month we had a letter from him, dated Cuero, Texas. He said he was working for a man named Murphy, a farmer, and that he was in reduced circumstances and ill."

"I wired him to come back and we would provide for him the rest of his life. He wired back that he would be here last Monday."

"I sent him pictures of myself and my little girl, six years old. She's a toe dancer. I sent him newspaper accounts of her dancing and he had them on him when he died. That's how they identified him."

FALLS 80 FEET OFF COAL CHUTE, BUT WILL LIVE

Macon, Ga., October 30.—(Special.) Clyde Lowe, an employee of the Ogle Construction company, sustained a number of broken bones today when he fell eighty feet from the top of a coal chute under construction for the Central of Georgia railway. At the hospital, it was stated Lowe probably will recover.

Morality Is Higher In Holland, He Says Thro' Birth Control

Chicago, October 30.—Morality in Holland is on a higher level because of birth control and "voluntary motherhood is moral, while involuntary or compulsory motherhood is ethically and socially immoral," it was asserted here today by Dr. S. Adolphus Knopf, Dr. Knopf, laureate of the Academy of Medicine of Paris and a captain of the United States army medical reserve corps in 1917, addressed the Middle Western States Birth Control conference.

Professor E. A. Ross, of the University of Wisconsin, sociologist, warned for a virtual return to the dark ages, as sweeping away of the existing standards of living, if the birth rate continued as at present. He said the present human family numbered 1,700,000,000, or twice the estimate of ninety years ago.

"Surely no one would wish to designate the people of Holland as immoral," said Dr. Knopf, "and yet in that country birth regulation had existed for over 40 years and the neomalthusianism of the Hague was sanctioned by royal decree in 1895. Dr. J. Rutgers, secretary of the neomalthusian league wrote me 'in the families of the laborers there is now a better personal and general hygiene, a firmer moral and intellectual development. All this has become possible by limitation in the number of children in these families. On the whole morality is now on a much higher level, and mercenary prostitution with its demoralizing consequences and propagation of contagious disease is on the decline.'"

For extraordinary service rendered to the grand lodge during the year jewels were presented tonight to James Clements and T. J. Carling, members of the board of trustees of the Masonic Orphans' home of this city. Mr. Clements has been coming to grand lodge sessions continuously for 31 years and Mr. Carling went him two years before.

There also was a jewel presented to the retiring grand master.

The matter of establishing a tuberculosis hospital at Alto, Ga., as recommended by the retiring grand master, will come up at the meeting Wednesday morning.

The grand lodge voted $1,000 to-night to the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children in Atlanta.

The report of the trustees of the Masonic Orphans' Home showed that the average attendance for the year was 156 1-2 and that the per capita cost was slightly more than 64 cents per day.

Of the children 120 are attending grammar school; 18 are in high school; 13 in a business college; one getting schooling at the home and another is too young.

The trustees also reported on the installation of a print shop at the orphans' home, in which eight children are being given vocational training.

Bowdoin's Address. Featured by the annual address of Grand Master Joe P. Bowdoin, in which recommendation was made that the Masons of Georgia establish a tuberculosis camp at Alto, Ga., for the treatment of Masons who fall victims to tuberculosis, the grand lodge of Georgia Masons convened here today for a two-day session. In addition to the recommendation for a tuberculosis camp, Mr. Bowdoin also recommended a complete auditing system for the grand lodge records.

The grand master reported the appointment of L. I. Veeder as a member of the Masonic home trustees, in place of the late Max Meyerhardt, of Rome, past grand master.

Following the grand master's address, Mr. Bowdoin was chosen by the grand lodge to accompany George M. Napier, past grand master, to Alexandria, Va., as representatives of the

A 25 to 84 Per Cent Saving on Bread

Not to mention superiority in quality. If you could buy a loaf of bread in which the QUALITY is just as high as in any bread—and much higher than in most cases—and yet get by actual test and comparison anywhere from 25 to 84 per cent more bread than in any other loaf——wouldn't it be worth your while to buy that kind of bread?

Well, that's exactly the case with ROGERS' QUALITY LOAF, made with milk. Baked in our own model white bakery, of the purest and best ingredients obtainable, and delivered fresh and almost warm every morning into our stores—that's Rogers' Quality 13-ounce loaf—really a 10c loaf—

Sold in Atlanta Stores for 5c

We ask you to make your own comparison—in weight, in quality, in freshness and then consider the price.

Writes to us one of our lady patrons: "I do not believe there is a better value anywhere than your 5c loaf of bread. It is of fine texture, and can be given to the home folks as well as the most exacting guest with the feeling that they are well served."

Another writes us: "I believe that no article is so universally needed and utilized as good bread—and such bread as Rogers' at 5 cents a loaf is not only the best of values, but is a Godsend to the people at large."

OKLAHOMA PLANNING WAR ON 'LAME DUCKS'

Oklahoma City, Okla., October 30. The probe of the state health and highway departments, with a view of releasing all "lame ducks" and politicians, was well underway Tuesday night, house leaders declared.

Pruning of the payroll will begin immediately upon receipt of the investigating committee's report, it was indicated.

The lower body will not attempt new legislation until the trial of Governor Walton has been disposed of in the senate. Committees will continue to grind away, with house members in recess from day to day, it was officially stated.

T. P. Edwards, personal chauffeur of Governor Walton, was before the house committee Tuesday. Edwards admitted having been made a major of the national guard at a salary of $225 a month, and assigned to the duty of guarding the chief executive without taking an oath and without first having had military training.

Representative Charles Brice, who has been heading the committee investigating Walton's alleged "pardon or parole a day" policy, Tuesday declared his committee was ready to report.

Walton is to go on trial before the senate Thursday, unless he resigns before that time, a proceeding which is not considered unlikely.

Chinese Premier.

Peking, October 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—President Tsao Kun has tendered the premiership to Sun Pao-chi. The executive is said to have arrived at his choice of Sun because the latter is considered a non-party man and has an excellent reputation in diplomatic circles. Sun has held a number of important posts in the Chinese government.

LUTHERAN SYNOD OPENS SESSIONS

Savannah, Ga., October 30.—(Special.)—With the Rev. W. E. Pugh, of St. Petersburg, Fla., presiding, the Georgia synod of the Lutheran church, which also includes the churches in Florida and Alabama, began its annual convention here this afternoon with devotional exercises and satisfactory reports from the president and secretary, Rev. M. R. Wingard, of Plains, Ga., and other officers. The evening exercises were mainly devotional, with an address by the president.

In addition to the synod, and in conjunction with it, the missionary society of the Georgia synod will begin its annual meetings here Wednesday, to last two days. The meetings are being held in the Lutheran Church of the Ascension, Dr. William Hoppe, pastor. Approximately 200 representatives of the two organizations are here as delegates.

The program for Wednesday follows: Business session of the synod. The afternoon will be given to hearing of president of boards and institutions of the United Lutheran Church of America. Among those who are to be heard are Rev. L. B. Wolf, Baltimore, secretary of the board of foreign missions; Rev. A. D. Hancher, D. D., Richmond, general superintendent of the southern district of the board of home missions and church extensions; Rev. E. G. Miller, D. D., of the board of ministerial relief, Philadelphia; Rev. W. H. Greener, D. D., Columbia of the Southern Lutheran Theological seminary; President S. J. Derrick, of Newberry college; Rev. P. E. Monroe, professor of Fundamental Theology, college, Leesville; R. C. Counts, manager of the publication house, Columbia; at 8:15 at night, address by Dr. L. B. Wolf, of Baltimore, on "Christian Education," address by Dr. L. B. Wolf, of Baltimore, on "The Lutheran Church and World Evangelization."

The missionary society program for Wednesday follows: Devotional service; address of welcome, Mrs. H. H. Kuck, Savannah; response, Miss Fannie Elmore, Oglethorpe, Ga.; greeting from the executive board of the missionary society of the United Lutheran Church in America, Mrs. H. C. Bell; greetings from the synod of Georgia; roll call; women's societies, young women's societies, light brigade; president's report; appointment of committees; report of statistical secretary and treasurer; mission study, Mrs. C. E. Weltner; address by the representatives of boards, devotional services.

Wednesday afternoon: Devotional services; survey of fields, home mission, Mrs. W. E. Pugh; mission study, Mrs. C. E. Weltner; reading of minutes; reports, light brigade superintendent, departmental secretaries; round table, Mrs. H. C. Bell; deaconess work, Mrs. E. B. Keisler; devotional service.

FAVORS SEGREGATION TO CURB CRIMINALITY

Chicago, October 30.—The only way to solve the problem of increasing criminality, caused by a rapid rise in the number of mental defectives in this country, lies in the segregation of the defective delinquents in state controlled colonies where the protective environment which they need can be created, Judge Harry Olson, of the Chicago municipal court, declared in an address prepared for delivery to delegates to the birth control conference of the middle western states meeting here today.

"Under such control there is an abrupt end to criminal depredations and to reproduction," Judge Olson said. "Both great needs of society are met. The need of the individual defective is likewise met for he is given an opportunity to live to the limit of his powers."

"These farm colonies for defectives will greatly reduce the cost of the defective to society generally and to the state. At the present day the defectives are multiplying as never before in the entire history of the race."

BOMB WRECKS HOME OF COUNTY ATTORNEY

Winfield, Kan., October 30.—With a detonation which rocked the town, a bomb was exploded on the front porch of a small house, formerly occupied by County Attorney Charles H. Quier, early today. The front part of the house was virtually wrecked, but three occupants of the house, who were asleep, were uninjured.

City and county officers are working on the theory that the bomb was meant for County Attorney Quier, who now owns the property, but had moved into a large property about the first of last June. Quier has been relentless in the prosecution of bootleggers during his term of office here.

The county attorney recently procured an injunction prohibiting a masked parade of the Ku Klux Klan through the streets of Winfield. A stranger is believed to have done the work, as the city directory still gives Quier's residence as the Fuller house.

CARROLLTON CHURCH CALLS DR. MILFORD

Carrollton, Ga., October 30.—(Special.)—The Tabernacle Baptist church of this city has called Dr. John J. Milford, of Howard college, Birmingham, Ala., and he has accepted the pastorate of the church.

Dr. Milford has been connected with Howard college for a number of years and is considered one of the leading Baptist ministers of Alabama. Dr. Milford and family will move to Carrollton at an early date. He will preach his initial sermon on Sunday, November 11.

Y. W. C. A. Firmly Placed In Life of Atlanta Girls

If any agency in the membership roll of the Community Chest already is established as a vital part of the life of Atlanta, it is the Young Women's Christian association, whose headquarters are on the top floor of the Peachtree Arcade.

These quarters have been occupied for a number of years. But the friends of the "Y. W." are crowded now, and there are many important activities which, with the present equipment, can hardly be conducted as they should be. The Y. W. C. A. of Atlanta shall have its own building, like those of other cities. They are looking forward to that time, for the work of the "Y. W." is crowded now, and there are many important activities which, with the present equipment, can hardly be conducted as they should be.

More than two-thirds of the total annual expenditures of the Y. W. C. A. are covered by the revenue of the institution. Only the remainder, less than one-third, is considered in the association's Community Chest budget. Sources of revenue are various, such as dues, fees, cafeteria returns, and other charges paid by the young women members.

Needs Are Served. But the Y. W. C. A. is not exclusively for those who can pay. The young woman who needs something more than the warm friendship which awaits all is served to the extent of her necessities.

No more inspiring service is rendered by any member of the Community Chest than that which the Y. W. C. A. extends to the young working woman who comes to Atlanta without local connections. Her friendly and helpful spirit. She is conducted to a suitable boarding house that has been thoroughly investigated and which measures up to Y. W. C. A. standards. Through the employment bureau she is helped to establish herself in a position and is introduced in on all the activities of the "Y. W."—self-governing clubs, the gymnasium, the reading rooms and other homelike, comfortable and healthful conditions that tend to make of her life a real asset to the city she has adopted as her home.

Nine Distinctive Features. There are nine distinctive features of the program of the association. These are:

Home—Provides the Y. W. C. A.

home and the Y. W. C. A. annex where girls have a home life amid comfortable, Christian surroundings. Housing—Directs girls to investigated homes in Atlanta, where conditions are refining.

Employment—Directs girls to positions. The service is free to employer and employee.

Health—Through gymnasium classes, offers girls better or restored health. Medical examinations are free. Private consultations are held indoors and outdoor recreation provided.

Cafeteria—Furnishes the noonday meal at reasonable rates and a wholesome supper for all club and gymnasium girls at 15 cents a plate.

Girl Reserves—A department for school girls. Under the guidance of advisers their program of weekly meetings includes health, education, training for community service, recreation and develops leadership among girls.

Industrial—A department that promotes self-governing clubs for girls in industry and business; offering training for community service, lectures, educational and economic classes, recreation and cultural development.

Business Women—A league for older business and professional women; a New-Comers' club for women who are strangers in Atlanta; afternoon socials and home economics for young matrons.

Summer Camp—Provides inexpensive vacations, week's visits or weekend trips for girls.

Girl's Conferences—Arranges leadership conferences for the training of girls and young women in Christian leadership.

Summer Camp. The most popular activity of the association in the minds of the girls themselves is the summer camp at Lake Umbagog, N. H., owned by the association, including buildings and 107 acres. The camp was established 6 years ago and is now equipped with swimming pool, tennis courts, dormitory, two fine clubhouses, electric lights, water and swimming pool. Although located near Atlanta, it has all the beauties and wonders of nature in the wild. By careful division of the time, thousands of girls have had the healthful, inspirational experience of camp life.

During the rest of the year the gymnasium classes participate in the competitive sports, ball games and are turning out girls whose cheeks are rouged by exercise and wholesome recreation, while matrons and business women are learning to overcome chronic ailments and to participate with new zest not only in gymnastics, hygiene and outdoor exercise, but in their everyday life duties.

There are no class lines in the Y. W. C. A. comradeship and healthful activities are found by girls from every type of home, while the hundreds of young women who come to Atlanta for work from other sections of the state find their only real home in this organization. The privileges of the association are made available to every type of girl, although they are encouraged to pay their own way as much as possible.

The staff of the association consists of a general secretary, nine departmental secretaries at administrative headquarters, two matrons at the home and one at the annex, two secretaries at the Phyllis-Wheatley branch for colored girls.

The prominent women of Atlanta who govern the association are not mere figureheads, but give much of their time and are faithfully devoted to the task.

The officers are: Mrs. Archibald Davis, president; Mrs. R. K. Rambo, first vice president; Mrs. Plato Durham, second vice president; Mrs. Mayton Callaway, recording secretary; Mrs. D. I. Carson, corresponding secretary; Miss Genevieve Saunders, treasurer.

The board of directors is composed of Mrs. Archibald Davis, Mrs. J. P. Averill, Mrs. W. A. Albright, Mrs. Stephen Barnett, Mrs. S. F. Boykin, Mrs. B. L. Bugg, Miss Sallie E. Brown, Mrs. S. C. Callaway, Mrs. D. I. Carson, Mrs. A. R. Colcord, Mrs. Charles Conklin, Mrs. Plato Durham, Miss Elizabeth Gregg, Mrs. W. P. Hill, Mrs. Ernest Kuntz, Mrs. Ashby Jones, Mrs. E. K. Laree, Mrs. Emily MacDougall, Miss Mary Menzies, Mrs. J. W. McEachern, Mrs. J. Russell Porter, Mrs. W. R. Prescott, Mrs. R. K. Rambo, Mrs. F. M. Robinson, Mrs. Julian Robinson, Mrs. M. L. Wilkinson, Mrs. S. C. Williams, Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, Miss Genevieve Saunders.

Iron ore of an excellent quality and of increasing quantity has been covered on the north shore of Cuba. A species of date-fish has been known to burrow into submerged columns of African marble.

INDIAN CHIEF KILLED IN FIGHT OVER WIFE TRADE

Prescott, Ariz., October 30.—A revival of the custom of trading wives in the Purple Mountain Indian camp, 87 miles south of here, led to the killing yesterday of an Indian chief by a brave who refused to turn over a shotgun demanded in the sale of a squaw.

The chief was Zookie Eams and his slayer Otto Mokahque, according to authorities. Mokahque was brought to the Prescott jail.

ISMET WILL FORM TURKISH CABINET

Constantinople, October 30.—Ismet Pasha has accepted the offer of Mustafa Kemal Pasha, president of the newly proclaimed Turkish republic, to form a new cabinet.

The national assembly at Angora voted yesterday to establish a republic. Mustafa Kemal Pasha was unanimously elected president with power to nominate a premier.

Ismet Pasha, the new premier, was an outstanding figure at the Lausanne conference and was largely instrumental in bringing about the freedom of Turkey from control by the powers.

Snow in Chicago.

Chicago, October 30.—Chicago awoke today to behold roofs and trees whitened by the first snow of the season.

LISBON REPORTS FALL OF CABINET

Lisbon, October 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Portuguese cabinet, headed by Antonio Maria Silva as premier, resigned today.

CARROLLTON BAPTISTS WILL BE ORGANIZED

Carrollton, Ga., October 30.—(Special.)—Under the leadership of Rev. J. T. Roberts, of Bowdon, stewardship leader, the laymen of the Carrollton Baptist association are making a campaign to organize the laymen of that church in a stewardship drive.

Prominent speakers, including Judges C. E. Roop and Leon Hood and John T. Hixon, W. J. Millican, V. D. Whaley and others will address every Baptist church in the county on the subject, beginning Sunday, November 4.

Speaks on Hospitals.

Carrollton, Ga., October 30.—(Special.)—Dr. C. C. Jarrel, general secretary for the M. F. Church, South, in its drive for building hospitals, delivered an address at the First Methodist church in Carrollton Sunday, making an earnest appeal for the movement that was inaugurated by the general conference of the church last year.

Education through the pocketbook

Thousands of people right here in the United States express all they know about the South when they chant, "Way down South in the land of cotton." To them it is the land of cotton and nothing else. Iron? Coal? Oil? Lumber? Manufactures? Sea-borne commerce? It has never occurred to them that in all these lines and a number of others the South is doing fairly well, thank you.

"Start an ice plant in Alabama? Why, those people down there haven't any money to buy ice," was the retort of an ice manufacturer in New York State to whom it had been suggested that he could do an all-the-year business selling ice in the South.

(John Gorrie of Florida was the inventor of the first successful ice-making machine. Columbus, Ga., was for years the principal center for the manufacture of ice machinery. There are 1,373 ice plants in the South, with an annual output valued at $69,000,000.)

"No inefficient colored help for me. That's why the Southern cotton mills have not grown faster." Such were the "reasons" given by a Northern cotton manufacturer for not moving South.

(Southern cotton mills consume more than 59 per cent. of the raw cotton used in this country. They employ 100 per cent. white "hands.")

* Incidents and facts furnished by the Birmingham News and Manufacturers Record.

The truth that flows from a good investment

Everybody knows that the great western plains are no longer scoured by roving bands of Indians on the war path—that shining gold bricks are not sold on the street corners of New York and Chicago to innocent country visitors. But in many quarters the South is still conceived to be a land of over-abundant leisure—a land of "Colonels" with long moustaches, of duelling pistols and rattlesnakes.

The "gold-brick" salesman is a myth

What can be done to dispel this cloud of misapprehension? Our own recipe is: Send a message along the pocketbook nerve! Show people how and why the prosperous, business-like South of today offers them a safe investment paying a good rate of interest. The thousands of investors all over the United States who own Miller Bonds are pretty well informed about the South's industrial progress. They would not have bought our bonds, secured by properties in Southern cities, unless we had been able to convince them that the South is a modern, thriving section. Now, day after day, these people in turn are convincing their neighbors and kin folks of the same thing. Truth travels fast along the pocketbook nerve. Where a man's money is, there also is his good opinion.

It's a good thing for the South, of course, to get millions of dollars annually from investors in Miller Bonds. At times it is almost a providential thing—last year and the year before, for instance, when the influx of all that "new money" worked wonders in chasing away the depression which had descended upon all lines of business. Money brought in by Miller Bonds made it possible to erect badly needed new buildings, and the erection of those buildings started activity in many directions. Miller Bonds, we believe, are the world's champion educators—in the way they teach the truth about the South, in the amount of money they produce, and in their influence upon the South's business prosperity.

The South of long ago—a land of romance

The South today—a land of industry

PROGRAM TO MARK VIADUCT OPENING

Formal opening of the Spring street viaduct, Atlanta's new $750,000 bridge project, was tentatively set for December 15, by members of city council's bridge committee and the viaduct committee of the bond commission in joint session Tuesday afternoon.

Walter G. Cooper, chairman of the viaduct committee of the bond commission, and Councilman J. H. Olson, chairman of the bridge committee of council, were appointed to devise a program which will mark the official opening of the viaduct. It is planned to have a number of speakers, including Mayor Walter A. Sims and other city officials, take part in the exercises.

It was recommended at the joint meeting of the two committees that the consulting architect draw plans for a bronze tablet to adorn the Terminal plaza side of the bridge, which will contain the names of Atlanta's two mayors—Walter A. Sims and James L. Key—during whose administrations the viaduct was erected; the chairman of the bond commission, Thomas C. Erwin; the chairman of the bridge committee of council, Councilman J. H. Olson, and members of the bond commission and council's bridge committee.

A bid from the Grinnell company for $4,845 for installation of fire system in the warehouse now in process of construction by the city for the Beck & Grege Hardware company, and a bid of the J. S. Schofield company, of Macon, for $2,056 for erection of a tank on the top of the warehouse, received favorable recommendation of the two committees.

STEWART DEFENDS PRESENT TAX LAW

In a statement given out Tuesday from his home in Axson, Ga., Charles E. Stewart, representative in the general assembly from Atkinson county, expresses the opinion that the special session of the legislature, which convenes on November 7, will adjourn not later than ten days after opening.

Mr. Stewart bases his belief, he states, on his conviction that tax reform, given by the governor as the primary reason for the call, is not needed in Georgia. He says that all that is really necessary in a taxation way is the passage of the general tax act which was passed by the house at the regular session, but which failed of passage in the senate and the enforcement of the present tax laws.

The representative declares that tax reform is nothing but a smoke screen from the corporations and special interests.

"There is nothing fairer and better than the ad valorem system with the hops driven down and the kinks smoothed out," he says. "Every time it becomes necessary for the corporations and special interests to come up with their part of the tax burden, they begin to yell 'tax reform'."

He states that he will introduce a resolution at the extra session calling for the formation of a commission to investigate "waste, leak, sinecure and political drones." He says that what is needed is an "economy commission," and not a "tax commission."

GEORGIA-FLORIDA ROAD PAYS TAXES

The state of Georgia was enriched to the extent of $2,000 Tuesday when a check for this amount was received from the Georgia & Florida railroad, now in receivership, as partial payment on overdue taxes. This check is to apply to taxes unpaid for 1922.

This road still owes its taxes for 1922 and 1923, and interest on taxes for 1921. The payment made Tuesday is one-sixth of the total amount, and M. T. Lanigan, of Augusta, auditor for the road, made arrangements with Assistant Attorney General T. R. Gress to pay the remaining sum due in monthly installments of like amount. Mr. Lanigan brought the check to the attorney general's office in person on Tuesday.

Mr. Gress has been devoting much attention of late to the matter of securing these overdue taxes from various railroads in the state, now in the receiver's hands. Last week he received a check for $10,000 as partial payment of the tax account of the A. B. & A. and he stated Tuesday that he was going to keep after them all until these taxes are completely paid, if possible.

NEW LAWYER OPENS ATLANTA OFFICES

William Kenyon Lloyd, who formerly practiced law in the states of Michigan and Arkansas, has been admitted to the bar in Fulton county under an order signed by Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton superior court.

WOODWARD'S WIDOW Demands Control Over His Estate

Adding further complication to the legal battle over the will of the late James G. Woodward, a motion to revoke the temporary orders of administration recently granted to his daughter, Mrs. Nannie Woodward, was filed in the ordinary's office Tuesday by Mrs. Violet Woodward, widow of the former mayor.

It is alleged in the motion of Mrs. Woodward that the letters of administration were granted improperly under a misrepresentation of facts by Mrs. Renfro, and that under the law Mrs. Woodward is entitled to administer her husband's estate. She is represented by Attorney George Spence.

Under the Woodward will, made public several months ago, his daughter, Mrs. Renfro, was left without a cent and his widow, who had been his second wife, was left only the house in which she lived and a monthly allowance of $75. The major part of his fortune, valued at about $50,000, was bequeathed to the union printers' home, in Colorado Springs, Col. The will was contested by Mrs. Renfro and Mrs. Woodward and it was set aside. Temporary letters of administration were granted last week to Mrs. Renfro.

ROSWELL BRIDGE BIDS CONSIDERED BY HIGHWAY BOARD

Bids for the construction of a modern steel and concrete bridge, to span the Chattahoochee at Roswell, and replace the present wooden bridge, will be opened by the state highway board at a meeting to be held at the East Point shops on Friday, November 16, it was announced Tuesday by Chairman John N. Holder, of the board.

Other contracts will be let at a meeting to be held on November 2, it was also stated. These are for the construction of bridges on the Chattanooga and Trenton highway in Dade county, for the building of 3.4 miles of sand clay road in Richmond county, on the Augusta and Louisville highway; for the building of 6.84 miles of sand clay road in Taliaferro county; for the building of 3.4 miles of sand clay road in Lumpkin county between Dahlonega and Dawsonville.

FIRE RAZES HOME AND FINE LIBRARY OF DR. M'CONNELL

Thomaston, Ga., October 30.—(Special).—Fire this morning destroyed the home of Dr. M. L. McConnell, noted preacher and lecturer, in the southern portion of Upson county.

The home and contents, including a valuable library of 4,000 volumes, were entirely destroyed. The value of the home and contents was $30,000, and insurance was $15,000. This home was one of the show places of Upson county and had been the scene of many of the doctor's entertainments. Billy Sunday having enjoyed a postum hunt there several years ago. The fire is believed to have been caused by the carelessness of a servant.

APPLIED ROMANCE FAVORITE COURSE IN PHILLY SCHOOL

Pittsburg, Pa., October 30.—So many pupils in city high schools are electing "applied romance," a course not in the regular curriculum, that high school authorities have thrown up their hands and called in the children's service bureau to provide a solution of the engaging problem.

David J. Terry, secretary of the organization, told a group of United Presbyterian ministers yesterday.

"Spooking," "mashing" and petting parties going on in all nooks and corners of the school buildings both during and between recitation hours have reached perfectly "scandalous proportions," Mr. Terry said. To make matters worse male graduates by the score flock back to the schools during lunch hours to woo the sweet lassies. Too often these affairs wind up with long automobile joy rides, disastrous to the afternoon attendance records, says Mr. Terry.

Reports on Intentions Of Farmers To Plant Crops To Be Continued

Washington, October 30.—In response to demands from farmers and others for continuance and expansion of its reports on intentions of farmers to plant crops, the department of agriculture announced today it would issue two such reports each year hereafter. One will be issued in March for spring planted crops, the other in August for fall sown crops.

Evidence is available, department officials say, that with the two reports issued this year farmers generally made readjustments in acreage in an effort to prevent over or under planting of crops and to bring the prospective production into better correlation with demand.

"The heavy losses to producers from over-production and to consumers from under production of certain crops has created a demand for some method of avoiding these disasters," a statement issued by the department says. "The potato crop of 1922, for example, was so large, 451,000,000 bushels, that thousands of bushels were never dug. This was one cause of the present depression in the northwest. Over-production due to expanded acreage can be avoided by farmers by giving due attention to the early intentions reports. A slight over-production frequently depresses the producers' prices without corresponding benefits to consumers."

PUBLIC SERVICE BODY IS GOING TO FLORIDA

On Tuesday, December 4, the entire personnel of the Georgia Public Service commission will attend the meeting of the National Association of Railway and Utility Commissioners to be held in Miami, Fla.

Those who will attend include Chairman Paul T. Trammell, of Dalton; Vice Chairman John P. Doudouillet, of Atlanta; Commissioners James A. Perry, of Atlanta; James D. Price, of Athens; Walter McDonald, of Augusta; Secretary Albert Collier, Rate Expert E. M. Price and Special Attorney William E. Watkins, of Jackson.

BLACK TO ADDRESS MASONIC LUNCHEON

Eugene R. Black will be principal speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Atlanta Masonic club at 12:30 o'clock today at the Peacock cafe, it was announced Tuesday by J. A. Bishop, secretary. Charles N. Walker, president, will preside.

Special musical features of the meeting will be in charge of Clarence Alred. A special effort to have all members of the club present is being made by the committee in charge of arrangements and program.

PORTER TO ADDRESS BAPTIST MINISTERS

Dr. Henry Alford Porter, retiring pastor of the Second Baptist church, will address the Baptist Ministers' conference at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the First Baptist church. Dr. Porter will leave November 4 to accept the pastorate of the Third Baptist church, of St. Louis. He has been a member of the Atlanta conference for the past 8 years.

Members of the conference and friends of Dr. Porter are invited to hear the address, which will probably be one of the last delivered while he is in the city.

It's Surely a Great Rug-Buying Time

Mrs. Wife has been wanting to get a new rug for the dining room, and Mr. Husband has listened to her and said—"Wait." But she'll carry her point with him now. Twenty per cent off on domestic rugs at High's. This means all kinds of rugs—Brussels, Wilton, Velvet and Axminster—in all sizes from the largest to the smallest. A saving of 20 per cent! Why, any husband with a bit of business gumption is going to say, "Go down and pick out that dining room rug today. And while you're there, might as well get another for the living room."

—Tapestry Brussels rugs in the 9x12-foot size are $29.75. Smaller rugs at the same savings.

—Axminster rugs, 9x12 feet, $39.25 to $67.69—20 per cent off. Smaller sizes to match these.

—Wilton Velvet rugs, 9x12 feet, $45.69—that's 20 per cent off. Smaller sizes to match them.

—French Wiltons, 9x12 feet, $93.69 to $112.50—savings of 20 per cent. And the smaller sizes to match.

Christmas Happiness Via High's Toyland

In buying toys do you select those things that little Mary or small Tommy wants, or do you wait and w-a-i-t, finally compromise at the eleventh hour and take whatever you can get? The last way does not make for children's happiness.

Anyway, High's Toyland is open right now and hundreds of parents and relatives and friends are to be seen here every day picking out those things that spell Christmas happiness for children.

You can save yourself a whole lot of time and make toy buying a pleasure instead of a task by coming to High's Toyland in the Annex on the Main Floor today and making your selections.

The Sweetest Thing in the Whole World

You don't have to do any second guessing—you know what we are talking about. That roly-polly, pink-cheeked baby of yours. Keeping him out in the air these early winter days? He needs it. If you haven't a complete winter wardrobe for the baby—snug and warm things—'tis an easy matter to find everything required in this Third Floor Baby Shop of High's. Prices? Most satisfactory. AN IMPORTANT DRESS SALE

Valuable in Its Savings Feature

THE LOWEST PRICES QUOTED THIS SEASON FOR DRESSES IN THESE STYLES & MATERIALS

The "Savings" mentioned in our caption are practical and tangible. These dresses have Reduced Prices---and they're the dresses most desired for present wear.

Wool Jersey DRESSES

There is more good style to these frocks than one could imagine into anything at $10. There isn't any question about savings in this instance—because they're good quality—not at all the thin grades of Jersey you might expect at the price. Black and all colors.

Smart Cloth DRESSES

The favorite is Poirat twill. The quality used in these frocks is fine and closely woven. The styles are almost limitless, including the fashionable coat dress. Also at this price, satin dresses of distinction and satin crepe with distinctive trimmings.

Satin and Crepe DRESSES

Such a variety that detailed description would overflow the paragraph allotted for today's talk. The newest and most accepted of the fall modes. Long and short sleeves—both youthful and dignified models. All colors and black.

Special Lot of DRESSES

Reduced to $29

Satin, satin crepe, cloth and velvet—the choosing will be your pleasure—the variety is such that we can assure satisfactory decision, for these are not $29 dresses—though their price is only $29. They were formerly very much higher priced. Black, navy, brown.

The Semi-Formal Frock

NOW that the winter dances have begun—afternoon and evening dances—the social gayeties that follow the game, nothing enhances the occasion like the striking semi-formal frock of bright-hued chiffon velvet brocade as the one shown above—orange with silver corsage. Such a dress has a place in every woman's heart. It fills many a niche in her social season.

INDUSTRY SOUGHT IN NORTH GEORGIA

Desirability of northern Georgia as a location for industries, especially for the textile industry, is set forth in a volume just compiled and published by the Georgia Railway and Power company, called "Industrial Georgia."

The book was published as a part of a cooperative movement of the power company with various communities wishing to locate industries in their sections and deals in detail with the advantages of climate, labor, raw material and power which are combined in north Georgia.

In listing, in the early chapters of the book, the qualifications which the state advances for industry, these things are catalogued: High elevation above sea level, temperate climate, proximity to cool mountain resorts, plenty of adequate freight facilities, location at source of raw cotton supply, plenty of immediately available power, friendly public sentiment and plenty of native American labor.

Officials of the power company stated that the first distribution of the volume will be at the International Textile exposition which is now in convention in Boston, gathering together the most representative textile and allied industries from all over the world. The Georgia Railway and Power company has at this exposition an elaborate exhibit, showing its power resources in north Georgia with a large relief map, on which actually flowing water depicts the course of the Tallulah, Chattooga and Fugate rivers down their mountain courses and through the seven power plants which will be the complete company chain when all developments now under construction are completed early in 1926.

Georgia towns listed in the book, whose advantages are set forth, include Atlanta, Acworth, Alto, Baldwin, Belton, Bowersville, Bowman, Braselton, Calhoun, Canton, Carrollton, Cartersville, Cedartown, Chamblee, Chickamauga, Clarksville, Commerce, Conners, Cornelia, Covington, Dalton, Duluth, East Point, Elberton, Fairburn, Gainesville, Hartwell, Hoescht, Kennesaw, LaFayette, Lawton, Lawrenceville, Lula, Mansfield, Marietta, Monroe, Mount Airy, Norcross, Palmetto, Rockmart, Rome, Smyrna, Social Circle, Stone Mountain, Summerville, Taylorsville, Toccoa, Whitesburg, Winder.

These are all cities in north Georgia which are served with hydro electric energy by the power company.

Mer Rouge Victims Declared PATHOLOGIST SCOUTS FOUR-MONTH THEORY In Lake Less Than 48 Hours

New Orleans, La., October 30.—The two mutilated bodies found in Lake Lafourche last December and identified as those of Watt Daniel and T. F. Richard, of Mer Rouge, who were kidnapped by hooded men near Bastrop four months earlier, could not have been in the water more than 48 hours, it was learned today from the pathologist, who conducted the autopsies, told the Times-Picayune tonight according to a story that newspaper will publish tomorrow.

Members of the Morehouse Parish Ku Klux Klan, at whose door Governor John M. Parker and others have laid the kidnapping and alleged murder of the men, repeatedly have charged the bodies were not those of Daniel and Richard but that they were "planted" in the lake a short time before their discovery in order to fasten the crime upon the Klan. Captain J. K. Skippin, the Morehouse exalted leader, has declared upon several occasions that the bodies came from a medical school in St. Louis.

Dr. John A. Lanford, pathologist of Tulane university, who assisted Dr. Duval in performing the autopsies, was quoted by the newspaper as corroborating the statement of Dr. Duval. Both, however, said there was no doubt in their opinion that the bodies were those of Daniel and Richard.

Dr. Duval's declaration was made during discussion of a deposition read in Atlanta today in the Rittenhouse suit to place the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan in receivership. The deposition of S. N. Littlejohn, quoted by A. B. Bracewell, a Klan investigator, as having told him when he went to Bastrop to investigate the disappearance of Daniel and Richard, that the two bodies found in the lake had been tied or "spread eagled" on logs in cart wheels and that what was crushed the heads of the two bodies.

The hands were crushed to a pulp, both feet and both hands crushed off at the ankles and wrists, and the upper arm, forearm, thigh and leg bones fractured in three places, each equidistant from the other. The chest also was crushed in, the ribs being torn or broken from the breast bones and fractured elsewhere.

Dr. Duval, asked if action of the log cart wheels said to have been described by Bracewell could have so mutilated the bodies, replied it might possibly have resulted in crushing the heads, hands and feet but that it could not have caused the other injuries.

KLAN TRIAL HERE BARES
MER ROUGE INCIDENTS

throughout Oklahoma for a law that would make it a penitentiary offense not only to flee but to conspire to flee, and thereby make the lives and liberties and bodies of the people of Oklahoma safe from unlawful invasion, and had just the sort of conversation I have outlined to you.

Campaign Planned.

Asked what sort of a campaign was planned, Dr. Evans said it was to be a speaking campaign in favor of an anti-flogging law and to build up a sentiment for law enforcement and obedience to the law. The imperial wizard said that no particular propaganda was issued against Governor Walton, the only plan being for a campaign to stop lawlessness.

Then propaganda was tested against Gov. Walton?

"Not particularly, no sir."

"In carrying out your plans?"

"No sir, the idea was the governor had said this kind of thing was happening and the idea was to stop any such thing happening in Oklahoma. No more than to say that because of the fact that we are perfectly willing to get behind the law, we are supporting the officers of the law wherever they are in proper performance of their legal duties."

"Well, to what extent did the plan go with reference to the Oklahoma fight, the Oklahoma situation?"

"They did send money."

"They spent some money in Oklahoma, yes sir."

"They have spent a large sum of money."

"No sir."

"He was questioned again about the Asheville meeting at which the Oklahoma situation was discussed and declared that he would not make or allow to be made any appropriation for any political campaign and at his request he stated his reasons why he believed it was necessary for the Klan to take a stand for an anti-flogging law in Oklahoma."

Blames Klan's Enemies.

"The enemies of the Ku Klux Klan," he said, have been tried to convict the Klan in the mind of the nation of being a lawless, law-breaking, whipping, tax and financial organization of machinery. When, as a matter of fact, under solemn oath, on the contrary we have sworn to support the law and all its officers and to see that the statement of the Oklahoma situation to the effect there had been 2,000 whippings out there, thought and believed if they had had any such condition as that, that an institution, every member of which was sworn to uphold the laws of the land in the proper performance of their duty, ought to take a stand for law and against whippings anywhere at any time."

He then said that the executive committee at the Asheville meeting agreed to put on a campaign of education in Oklahoma with lectures, quizzing with the state and to bring about peace and harmony in the state. The money spent in Oklahoma, he declared, was spent for this purpose only.

"Klan Blackballed Walton."

"Was Governor Walton a Ku Klux?" he was asked.

"Well, no, not exactly," Governor Walton applied and was governed partially, not fully."

Mr. Eldridge: "Do you know that of your own knowledge?"

"I will have to give it the way it was told me by an agent of the Ku Klux Klan," was the reply. "He was obligated by an agent of the Klan; they sent in his fees and the Klan where he lived didn't want him, didn't believe in him; and so he was not taken into the Klan and has always been in the attitude of having been obligated but not affiliated."

Mr. Coburn then took up the question.

"Doctor, in taking in a klanman where the Klan is not chartered, they are taken in by klanism merely by obligation and dedication, isn't that true?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then they are klanmen when they are obligated?"

"Well, under that I would say I would hold that this man—Walton if he proved the fact that he had been obligated, since he denies it, I would hold that he was a klan-man at large until such time as he has been properly gotten out of the order."

"Klanman at Large."

"Then, having taken the obligation, Governor Walton was a klanman at large, isn't that true?"

"Yes, sir. Now that is predicated upon his having this obligation. Governor Walton denies it. Mr. Coburn, other men affirm it. Mr. Coburn will prove this affirmation. There have been some written reports published about it. I don't know of my own personal knowledge, because I don't know Jack Walton, but I will say this much, that if he is a klanman, he was taken in by the klanman. He ought to be removed before the eyes and the scrutiny of the American public through their front doors."

"Then if he was taken in the back door, the klanie who took him in was not attending to his business, isn't that right?"

"I don't approve of his selection of material, but that is not an answer to the question."

Questioned About Money.

Dr. Evans was again asked by his attorney about the money of E. Y. Clarke and the amount of money in the Klan treasury when a suit was filed by William J. Simmons, emperor of the Ku Klux Klan, that there was about $337,000, but he did not have the exact record before him. Who was present? suit was filed, he said, there was about $400,000 and at the time the deposition was taken about $700,000.

Dr. Evans said that he saw a copy of a deposition passed by klanmen in Texas instructing members to refrain from contact with Atlanta newspapers. He said he knew of only one klan that had passed a resolution about withdrawing and withholding money from headquarters and that this was the San Antonio klan, but that it rescinded the resolution within 30 days.

He was asked about a similar resolution said to have been passed by the Oklahoma klan at Tulsa, but said he never had seen any such resolution.

After being questioned about the bank accounts and various safe deposit boxes he was asked: "Doctor, how much money did you have in your pocket when you went out to see about some paper publication, Mayfield's Weekly, did you?"

"No sir, I never paid Mayfield's Weekly a dollar in the world for any paper or character of work."

"No sir."

"The Klan ordered how many copies of Mayfield's paper?"

"I don't know, but I have bought a copy up to now in the history of the Klan. I have no knowledge of any payment of any kind having been made for Mayfield's Weekly paper by the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan."

"Did you take any money off there to them?"

"No sir, I know I carried no money to them."

Anent Mer Rouge.

Assertion that J. J. Bracewell, a Ku Klux Klan investigator, had told him that he had been told by a Klan member that the bodies found in the lake had been tied or "spread eagled" on logs in cart wheels and rolled down the hill and that what was crushed the heads of the two bodies, was made in a deposition by S. N. Littlejohn.

Littlejohn said that he was employed at the time as a chauffeur for the Ku Klux Klan. He was sent to Bastrop about January 12 to make investigations. There he met Bracewell to whom he said, "I am an investigator. I am here to look for advice and instructions. It was at this time, he said, that Bracewell advised him it would not be necessary for him to go to Mer Rouge; that the two bodies found in the lake had been tied or "spread eagled" on logs in cart wheels and rolled down the hill and that what was crushed the heads of the two bodies, was made in a deposition by S. N. Littlejohn.

Littlejohn said that he was employed at the time as a chauffeur for the Ku Klux Klan. He was sent to Bastrop about January 12 to make investigations. There he met Bracewell to whom he said, "I am an investigator. I am here to look for advice and instructions. It was at this time, he said, that Bracewell advised him it would not be necessary for him to go to Mer Rouge; that the two bodies found in the lake had been tied or "spread eagled" on logs in cart wheels and rolled down the hill and that what was crushed the heads of the two bodies, was made in a deposition by S. ABUNDANT PARDON.

Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him, and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.—Isaiah 55:7.

POLITICS VS. BUSINESS.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who has made one of the best officials in that department in American history, and all because he has applied strictly business principles instead of political influences in the conduct of so great a business machine, has openly advocated a further reduction of the federal surtaxes of 25 per cent, thereby guaranteeing a saving to the people of the country of fully a half billion dollars a year.

Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, the new chairman of the senate finance committee, and a recognized tax expert, has fully concurred in the statement that the government is in such financial shape that the reductions can be made without embarrassment to government services, but he has advised against any congressional attempt to this end at this time, being the year preceding a national election, because of the "great political danger that opening the tax question might force upon the administration."

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, in an address in New York recently, very properly denounced any attempt to play politics with so great an economic blessing as the reduction of the federal taxes, and demanded that if true, as the treasury administrator had said, that the time had arrived for further reductions, then these reductions should be made, and without thought to the political advantages or disadvantages to any person or party.

The Constitution took the same view, and commended Senator Borah on the frankness and fairness of his position. The following letter to the editor of the Constitution explains itself:

"I am greatly pleased with your editorial upon the tax question. I think along about the 15th of November we ought to begin thoroughly arousing public opinion upon this question. I believe if the matter is well presented to the people of the country, we can force action, even at this season. The admission having been made that we can reduce to the extent of at least $500,000,000, the opponents of action will be in an indefensible position in refusing to act. Heaven knows, the people need relief and need it speedily."

—WM. E. BORAH.

—Washington, D. C., October 24, 1923.

It is inconceivable that the so-called exigencies of party politics, as influenced by a partisan in such an official position as is Senator Smoot to push or pocket any movement for tax reductions, shall become a factor in solving the problem in saving the American people, who are sorely distressed by reason of the federal tax burdens, a half billion dollars a year.

Particularly is this true at this time when the whole country is readjusting itself to new economic conditions forced by post-war unrest, disturbed European affairs, and heavy agrarian losses in our own country.

If there has ever been a time since the civil war when the people of this country needed tax relief, and any other financial relief that can be made without offsetting reactions, that time is now. The boll weevil has eaten heavily at the south's resources. European financial distress has eaten heavily at the wheat-growing resources of the west. The economic reconstructions are nation-wide, and involve every class, and every element of business.

The demagogue may say the surtax is imposed only upon the rich, or the business of great profits. Admitting that to be true, the masses pay the taxes. They always do. There is no tax imposed upon a class that is not met by a mass; no tax upon the producer that is not met by the consumer. The people of the whole country pay the federal income taxes, whether they know it or not, and to the same extent the people of the whole country feel and respond to any reductions in federal taxes, whether those reductions are made upon one class, or another class, in the varied, complicated and confusing system that congress has fastened upon the people.

The idea of playing politics with tax reductions—that is, to make the American people pay into the government a half billion dollars in the fiscal year 1924-25 without reason other than to prevent the radicals of the northwest from "embarrassing" the republican administration—is not only inexcusable, but it is reprehensible.

Senator Borah is right! If the public thought of this country is aroused to the significance of the respective Mellon and Smoot statements, and demands these reductions, they will be made. Congress cannot withstand such a concatenation of united popular will.

BONAR LAW'S DEATH.

While the death of ex-Premier Bonar Law, member of the coalition cabinet of Lloyd George during the war and subsequently prime minister of Great Britain under the mandate of the unionist party, was not unexpected, yet the passing of so outstanding a figure necessarily carries a great shock to his own country, and to all the world.

Its effect in the many-angled European political and economic situation will be negligible, for in turning over the reins of government recently to Stanley Baldwin, his chancellor of the exchequer, he did so with a complete surrender of all further interest, except as a private citizen, in national and international affairs. He realized then that a rapidly advancing pulmonary trouble would soon mean the dissolution.

Bonar Law was a business man who carried the astute principles of sound business into government. He was never a picturesque figure, but a safe one. He knew little of the intrigues of politics but knew much about the honor of government.

He was not spectacular, and hence did not surround himself with any hero-worshipping following, but the British government never had a fairer or sounder statesman at its helm, although of such a positive nature that his enemies were many.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

A Bath at Last.

The first bath in the Palace Quai d'Orsay was installed recently in honor of the official visit to Paris of the president of Czechoslovakia. Although this palace housed all the illustrious princes of Europe, Nicholas of Russia, King Edward of England, Albert of Belgium, and the furnishings are among the art treasures of Paris, there never was a bath in the palace until a few weeks ago. America is far wiser than Europe in sanitary arrangements.

Vindication Too Late.

Jules Strimelle, blacksmith, shot and killed during the war a spy who had been exonerated. His widow worked six years with untiring efforts to establish her husband's innocence. When the enemy neared his blasted ship, Douval Strimelle released his carrier pigeons. A mob gathered when some one said that the pigeons had flown in the direction of the advancing enemy. He was kicked and beaten until arrested by the French military. His trial lasted twenty minutes. Now the evidence has been completed and evidence was submitted that the pigeons flew to the French general staff with important intelligence.

World Famous Trial.

Major Esterhazy, the man who was the real guilty party in the great treason trial of the French government against Captain Dreyfus, has passed away in England. The accusation against Dreyfus of having sold the famous borderland plans of the new French army to the Germans aroused world-wide interest. Dreyfus was convicted on the testimony of the handwriting expert, Bertillon, and was sent to the Devil's Island. Later, Zola, great French novelist, wrote his "J'accuse," which brought about a new trial for Dreyfus, but which sent the author into exile. It was finally established that Esterhazy had sold the plans. Dreyfus was restored to his rank in the army and served during the great war as a colonel of artillery.

Secrecy in Meeting.

What happened when Lloyd George visited President Woodrow Wilson is not known. The meeting was as secret as the many held in the hotel rooms of the president while he was drafting his covenant of the league and serving in Paris six years ago. No newsman was allowed to be present when the great Welshman visited the man whose health broke down in his efforts to tell the American people its logical duties flowing from its intervention in Europe. The president vindicated his league, but history will vindicate Wilson.

Not a Bad Jail.

Krupp von Bohlen, the German financier who was recently imprisoned by the French because he incited his workers against the French occupation, has been living a luxurious life in his prison chambers. He and his fellow prisoners have private dining rooms, a smoking room and many other comforts. And now Krupp and three of his associates have been put in prison on a seven-day parole for Berlin on the ground of "pressing business."

The Same Everywhere.

Soviet spies robbed the office of the attorneys in Paris who are to defend the Russian patriot, Conrad, whose trial comes up at Lausanne next month. Conrad was the man who told Vorovsky, the soviet envoy at the Lausanne conference. All the documents on which Conrad's defense was based were stolen. The Russian government accuses an unnamed spy of the theft. The stolen documents are now in the hands of the soviet government. He opposes violence in the seizure of government. He and Trotsky are having hot times calling each other names. The subject is violence, but that subject is not debatable in America.

Indian Unrest And British Rule.

Bombs were thrown at Lahore, British India. Seven Englishmen were killed in the explosion. The non-cooperation policy inaugurated by Mahatma Gandhi has not died out. Still Gandhi did not advocate force. Although there is the only hope of the Indian nationalists. There are 300,000,000 natives in India and the British have about half a million native troops. This includes the army, navy, officials, merchants, etc. Yet the departure of the last English soldier would be the signal for bloody massacres. John Bull is the big policeman who keeps Sikhs and Bengalis, Punjab and Gurkhas together and prevents them from killing each other.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HAVE A THINKING MIND.

A large part of the human race has a mind with but a single groove in it—that of earning just enough, and no more.

The chap who watches the clock, who is more particular as to the minute of stopping work than he is about starting work, who thinks of the end of the day only as a time to quit and be done for work, is digging that single groove deeper and deeper.

There should be a thousand grooves to the mind!

Every time you use your eyes you should pick up something interesting and worth while enough to travel through one of these thousand or more grooves.

To the versatile man, the thinker opportunity is most alert.

He matters where you go, no matter what you talk, but he matters what you read, where you absorb something that you can lay aside and later adapt.

If you have a thinking mind, that mind will never be idle. Even in sleep it will send silent messages through the ether, and these messages will give you pleasant and happy memories when you awake.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. MINTYRE

New York, October 30.—Among the dejected streets of the East Side, there is none expressing a more dejected tone than Second Avenue. Gaity appears to have left the thoroughfare in a lurch. The people remain silent and brood.

The shops are drab and unkempt. Street-corner luncheoners wear black shirts and caps. Each block has one or two swing-door saloons now labeled "Cafe." Residents, life upstairs over stores and there is no neighborly contact.

Mothers pushing baby carriages—five in a row—trudge along without conversing. They offer no courtesy of the sidewalk, the pedestrian must climb around them in the street. There are an unusually large number of blind folk and cripples and men with sunken noses.

I stopped into a drug store to inquire about an address. The windows were so dirty one could not see inside from the pavement. A sudden woman came out from behind the prescription case. Her reply to a civil question was pitched in scorn.

Over the night bell of a funeral parlor was sign reading: "We don't accept calls without a full deposit." Second Avenue, apparently, does not even care for its dead. The younger girls climb to balconied faces and heavily rouged cheeks and chew gum.

The lunch rooms are all infested places—such as the 2 & N, the 1 & H, and the O & L. Menus are on the windows in frosted white. The "chicken stew" is the poster of the day. A blue steel sign is in full view at every cashier's desk. The legal permit framed on the notice to "Cough Your Change."

Scattered furniture dots the curbs as symbols of the many rent evictions. There is an unusually large number of the stranger by the shopkeeper. He fears being asked to buy tickets to some mythical function—the tribute he must constantly pay to gangs.

SERMONS TO LIVE BY

BY ELAM FRANKLIN DEMPSEY

"BE MASTER"

Text: Mark, 4:35-41 and 5:13-20. "The masterful use of Jesus," is a fitting title for a lesson from the Gospel of Mark which presents Jesus the Man of Power. This Gospel of Mark was written for the Roman people who admired strength and power above all else. Jesus, the power builder, is clearly seen in the narrative.

Power over both the visible forces of nature and the invisible forces of the spirit world is seen to reside in Him. But this Commander-in-Chief of the forces of the kingdom of heaven had a very different idea of masterfulness from that of Napoleon.

The little Corsican, being asked by an ambitious youth how to succeed, said: "Be master!" In so saying, the rosy and unscrupulous adventurer, the scheming duplicit, as he has been called, had the idea that made and makes him. He meant, namely, other men your victims and servants. The more men you slay and enslave, the greater master you are.

But Jesus' usefulness is due to the contrary fact: He served all, instead of being served by all. Matthew, xx.

The dignity of our salvation is Captain over a host whose law is love; whose method of conquest is by conversion; whose enemies are friends; and whose climax is a state of peace instead of a silent desolation of death. The issue is certain. "He must reign till He hath put all enemies under His feet." I. Corinthians, 15:25.

FORD IS OUT OF RACE, SAVANNAH MAN TOLD

Savannah, Ga., October 30.—Henry Ford is out of the presidential race again.

So declared, with considerable positiveness, a telegram received here Tuesday by E. S. Fuller, secretary of the local Ford Presidential club, from the secretary of the Detroit automobile manufacturer.

After notifying Fuller that Ford does not expect to make the race, the message concludes: "This may be summed up as a determination not to accept any nomination whatever."

"He feels that he will be able to accomplish much more through his present and projected activities," Ford has already addressed communications to Collier's and The Dearborn Independent magazines, according to a statement explaining his position in declining to allow his name to be mentioned for the nomination.

"If you do, you'll have bad dreams," he said, adding that smoking has the same effect.

HERRING AND JONES FIGHT TONIGHT AT AUDITORIUM

Ferns and Briney To Clash In Ten-Round Semi-Windup; "Irish Benny" vs. Otaivaro

Britling's Orchestra Will Furnish Music for The Dance Which Will Follow Herring-Jones Struggle.

TONIGHT'S FIGHT CARD.
Opening bout, six rounds, Chief Otaivaro vs. "Irish Benny" Pledger.
Second bout, eight rounds, "The Wallowing Wop" vs. Jackie Carr.
First star 10-round bout, Eddie Briney, Louisville, vs. Fearless Ferns, Atlanta.
Final star contest, 10 rounds, Red Herring, Birmingham, vs. Frankie Jones, California.

BY PAUL WARWICK.

From time immemorial, or a few minutes before, we have heard about or participated in the conventional dance that breaks up in a fight, but it remained for the 18th Cavalry to reverse the process and introduce a fight that breaks up in a dance.

No later than this impending night will the cavalry promoters stage a series of pugilistic sessions, headlined by ten-rounds between Frankie Jones and "Red" Herring, which will be followed by a Halloween bout, with Jack O' Lanterns, gob-hobblers, witches on broomsticks and other appearances there unto appertaining.

Forgetting the dance for the nonce, or even longer than that, it might be well to attend briefly to this affair between Frankie Jones, the fighting representative of otherwise peaceful California, and Red Herring—whose presence in any ring is insurance enough of a battle from the time the gong is first struck with the monkey wrench.

Herring's last accomplishment was to administer a very striking whipping to Kayo Jenks, who had a few days previous won himself a flock of admirers.

Beckett certainly asked for it, and he certainly got it.

Four years ago Beckett, then European champion, met Carpenter at the new Holborn stadium. He announced that he was going to kill Carpenter, and some feared he might. In the ring, Beckett lasted 70 seconds. A bit of sparring, the old right to the jaw and Beckett was looking at the pretty pictures.

Beckett wanted a return match, but Carpenter, his star in the ascendant, was seeking a match with Jack Dempsey. Beckett continued his fighting; he took all comers. He was ashamed of himself and said he was willing to fight his way up again. He lost once to old Frank Monte but beat him convincingly in a second match.

Every week, every day, Beckett was out for another match with Carpenter. He heard the stories that Carpenter's right hand had gone in his fight with Dempsey; he said that this time he would not fail. However, a fight was arranged. Beckett seemed years younger; he was really obviously happy for the first time since the 70-second fight he had helped to stage in 1919.

There were postponements for all sorts of things; Carpenter's nose bled, Beckett's sore thumb. Then the night.

Beckett entered the ring at Olympia, received the greatest ovation of his career. Carpenter, almost as much an idol in London as he is in Paris, seemed coldly greeted by his opponent. Then the fight.

Both men looked in bad condition; Beckett fat and pale; Carpenter drawn as if overstrained. Beckett mirrored by slapping Battling Budd out of the picture in six rounds.

Ferns Meets Briney.
Another event which will take up some time while Kid Cy Young and others are fidgeting in restless anticipation for the dance to come later is the ten-round semi-windup between Eddie Briney, of Louisville, and Fearless Ferns, a local thumper who has a large and enthusiastic following and who has himself appeared in a great many local final bouts. There was no dancing to be done later.

"Irish Benny" Pledger has finally collected all his names, and with the assistance of an undoubted fighting heart and a deal of boxing ability, will fight Chief Otaivaro, the Fort Benning Indian, an aborigine who has distinguished himself by former appearances in local rings. Jackie Carr, an old-time favorite with an insatiable appetite for punishment and a nice attitude for administering it, will meet the Wallowing Wop, just as euphonically sometimes called Battling Petros, in eight rounds.

This will finish all the fighting before the audience goes into a clinch to music furnished by Britling's orchestra.

The card shows promise of some fast milling. Herring's appearance against Jones being a particularly fortunate bit of promotion. Herring has been a good drawing card for some months in this section and the heralding which has preceded Jones augurs well for the ferocity of the engagement. The Ferns-Briney set to also has elements of interest.

The dance, scheduled to begin at 10:30, will last until 2 a. m., according to plans.

FAMOUS OVAL IS DESTROYED

Beverly Hills, Cal., October 30.—The automobile speedway here, scene of national automobile races and one of the fastest wooden automobile saucers in the country, was burned today.

Fire-fighting apparatus was summoned from neighboring towns. The flames ate their way into a large section of the north bleachers and a considerable portion of the wooden track was ablaze.

Fire apparatus from Hollywood and Los Angeles helped to fight the fire.

Officials of the speedway association came here to determine whether the track could be reconstructed in time for the Thanksgiving races.

Both men looked in bad condition; Beckett fat and pale; Carpenter drawn as if overstrained. Beckett mirrored by slapping Battling Budd out of the picture in six rounds.

CENTRE WILL INVADE AGAIN

New York, October 30.—College football schedule-makers already are laying plans for the 1924 season. Prominent among the prospective games is a return engagement between Princeton and Notre Dame. The Hoosiers were still dressing in the field house at Princeton after their 25 to 2 victory over the Tigers when Bill Roper, Nassau coach, came in to congratulate the westerners.

MILLION SAW GRID BATTLES

New York, October 30.—(Special.) Nearly a half million football fans watched fifteen of the leading games played in widely scattered parts of the United States Saturday. It is believed to be a new record for a single day's attendance.

This total, added to the attendance at the 200 other collegiate games in various parts of the country, undoubtedly boosted the grand total of spectators at college games in America to well over a million.

East Drives Most.
The games at Yale and Harvard, which showed paid attendance of about 50,000 at each place, attracted the greatest crowds. Iowa at Ohio and the Illinois-Northwestern game in Chicago drew the largest middle western attendance, while Stanford and the University of Southern California at Palo Alto had the most spectators of games played on the Pacific coast.

Attendance at the leading games follows:
Brooklyn at Yale 50,000
Dartmouth at Harvard 50,000
Centre at Penn 42,000
Iowa at Ohio 35,000
Navy-Princeton 40,000
Illinois-Northwestern at Chicago 32,000
Minnesota at Wisconsin 30,000
Stanford-U. of So. Cal. at Palo Alto 30,000
W. & J. at Detroit 25,000
Purdue at Notre Dame 20,000
Georgia Tech at Georgia 20,000
Purdue at Chicago 20,000
Michigan Ags. at Ann Arbor 20,000
Whitier-Cal. branch at Los Angeles 20,000
Nebraska at Missouri 11,000
Total 455,000

Sanford Will Retire.

New Brunswick, N. J., October 30.—George Foster Sanford will retire as football coach for Rutgers at the close of this season, it was announced yesterday. Mr. Sanford has coached Rutgers eleven years without a year. He has been so strongly opposed to commercialization of the game that each season he has exacted a promise from members of his squad never to coach as professionals after graduation. He has resigned supreme in football matters at Rutgers and has turned out several famous teams. He will be succeeded by Jack Wallace, at present his assistant, and a former Rutgers player.

Zev Races Today.

New York, October 30.—Zev, international three-year-old champion, has been entered in the $2,000 autumn championship stakes, fourth race of the final day card at Empire City track tomorrow. This was revealed late today when an entry list of five horses was announced for this feature, which is for all ages at a mile. Zev was coupled with Brancade as the favorites stable entry.

Carpenter Sails Soon.

Paris, October 30.—Georges Carpenter will sail for the United States tomorrow on the liner Rochambeau, it was announced today. Carpenter has been matched for a bout against Tom Gibbons, the "Saint boxer," to be held in New York in December or January.

A black and white photograph of two men sitting on chairs, facing each other. The man on the left is wearing a dark suit and a bowler hat. The man on the right is wearing a light-colored shirt, dark trousers, and a bowler hat. They are in a room with a brick wall and a framed picture on the wall.

Nearly one hundred disabled men are being cared for at the hospital and officials of the Disabled Veterans of the World War state that several hundred boys in Georgia are in need of hospitalization.

New York, October 30.—In defence of her daughter's good name, Mrs. Emma Miller, nervous but defiant, told the jury in the Stokes divorce suit Tuesday that the defendant, Helen Elwood Stokes, had always been carefully chaperoned, and was never alone with Edgar T. Wallace, co-respondent named by the aged millionaire.

She denied immediately that her daughter had ever visited Wallace at Boston. In a girl of 16, she showed a snapshot on a California beach in which Wallace and Helen Elwood appeared together. She said she had snatched the picture herself and had posed them close to each other. One damaging admission was extracted from her by the cross-examination of the stiff counsel on cross-examination. While relating her daughter's attendance at the school at Sycamore, Ill., she said many of which she left after a short stay. Mrs. Miller alluded to a stay at a school at Sycamore, Ill., near Chi-

TWO MEN ARE HURT AS TRUCK TURNS OVER

Winder, Ga., October 30.—(Special.)—A large truck belonging to the Georgia Railway and Power company, driven by P. M. Carter, one of the company's employees, turned over on the Bankhead highway one mile west of Winder today about noon and seriously injured J. E. Fincher, 43, North Mason street, Atlanta, and also injured W. Wilborn, of Seeman, Ga., but not seriously. Fincher had his skull fractured and was badly bruised about his body, while Wilborn was cut about the head and badly bruised. Carter was only slightly in-

Contradicts Daughter.
This was in direct contradiction of Mrs. Miller's previous testimony, at the first trial, when she testified attending the Sycamore store. Also, it affords plaintiffs some opportunity to bring out the story of a trip made by Helen Elwood, then 16 years old, to Chicago with a man, and of visits to Chicago's underworld, which the prosecution has been unable to disprove.

Mrs. Miller's recollection of a $1,000 diamond ring loaned to Mrs. S. S. Miller, of Chicago, in 1908, when she placed the incident in 1908 or 1900, before Helen Elwood's marriage to Stokes. It was Mrs. Miller's impression, she testified, that Wallace wanted to marry Helen. She was present when the ring was loaned to her daughter, which strengthened her belief that it was not present, she said, when it was turned.

Marries Stokes.

Helen's marriage to Stokes, 35 years her senior, was by her daughter went to New York with Dr. and Mrs. Hendryx and lived at the Ansonia hotel, New York city, for some time. Mrs. Miller admitted that she did not know of the marriage until after it was over.

The trial was adjourned until Thursday because of the death of the father of one of the jurors.

AS ASSAULTED WOMEN.

Carroll, Ga., October 30.—(Special.)—Tom Bennfield, of Cleburne county, Alabama, was arrested and charged with attempted attack on a young woman of Cleburne county.

On the night of September 20, two young women were said to be one of them, with two young women, one 20 and the other 16 years old, drove to the home of the older woman.

On their way home after the show, before crossing the Alabama line, it is said, the car was stopped and an alleged assault on the two women.

Another man is being sought.

"Of each other. If he is the accountant I think he is, you will get what you want."

Madelon made no comment, but a little gap of dismay came from the corner of her eye where Barbara listened, tremblingly.

Lane's eyes turned toward her as though aware of her presence for the first time.

"Another thing. . . . Barbara will be guided by my will, and her relationship with you will cease from this moment on."

"No, Stephen—no!" pleaded Barbara.

"He took no heed of her. With a gesture of dismissal to Madelon, he turned back into the other room."

Madelon, her head lifted proudly, turned away. Her eyes were cast out, closing the door softly behind her.

Barbara had taken a swift step after her when Lane's voice, cold and stern, stopped her.

"It is rather late for you to question my decisions, isn't it?"

"Not, Stephen, not for a young and handsome woman like me?" Barbara pleaded.

"Surely you can't censurc her. Twice you sent away young men she had loved."

"I am not for consulting you beforehand in such things."

"I am not in the habit of discussing my decisions with any one," she said; much less with a sentimental fool like you," he answered coldly. "Are you quite ready for dinner?" It is a question she has heard so often before and motioned her toward the door. But she was not to be so easily deceived. A glance caught and held hers.

"You will not forget what I said; you are not to see or befriend Madelon

Will Meet Tuesday

The regular monthly meeting of the Boys' High Parent-Teacher association will be held Tuesday, November 8, at 8 o'clock in the Boys' High school building.

John Bradford, the New York representative of the National Recreation Association of America, will speak on the subject of "Spare Time and Character."

The members of the Boys' High association are urged to attend this meeting, and the associations of the other schools are cordially invited, as it is particularly desired that Mr. Bradford's message get over to one representative of each school.

CARROLL CENTENNIAL IS PLANNED FOR 1926

Carrollton, Ga., October 30.—(Special.)—Led by the local paper and backed by the trade board, city council and other civic bodies, Carroll county is planning a big centennial celebration in 1926, the county having been formed in 1826 and organized in 1829.

This promises to be one of the greatest events in the history of western Georgia since a half dozen were formed wholly or partly out of what was then Carroll, will be invited to participate in this celebration. In 1826, Carroll embraced all of Georgia west of the Chattahoochee river, a line running east and west at Buchanan and extending to West Point on the south.

Insurance, thrift and home ownership has had marked success and company officials are enthusiastic over the results of their efforts to bring about harmony between the races, thrift and general betterment of conditions. The announcement of the company contains gratifying information on the progress of the company's business and the great strides it is making as business institution and as an agency for good among the negroes.

Christian Endeavor
Invited to Griffin;
D. B. Griffin

Griffin is making a strong bid for the Georgia state Christian Endeavor convention in April, 1924, it became known Tuesday night at the annual banquet of the Atlanta Christian Endeavor society, which was held by Rev. O. K. Cull, of Griffin, president of the west-central district of Georgia. Rev. Cull was accompanied to the banquet by a number of Griffin Endeavorers. The banquet was at the First Christian church. Delegations from more than 25 local societies were present. Alvin Moye, president, was toastmaster.

Mrs. J. M. Glenn, assistant-director of the paganant, "The World Cry and the City Auditorium" to be presented at the city auditorium on November 14 and 15 by the Methodist churches of Atlanta, outlined the plans

Break in German Cabinet Believed Averted For Time

Berlin, October 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—The general political situation with respect to the conflict is viewed tonight in official quarters as having showed marked improvement. The United States socialist who yesterday threatened to secede from Chancellor Stresemann's coalition government, appeared less intransigent today, and the radicals are expected to change the party's attitude toward the central government's procedure in Saxony and into a more moderate one.

The attitude of the radicals is explained on the ground that the party, as such, is in neither a strategic nor a tactical position to take any position, and also because its withdrawal from the present coalition under the present circumstances would

Governor Clifford Walker Tuesday issued a proclamation officially designating Saturday, November 3, as "Forget-Me-Not Day" in Georgia, and urged "tender consideration and warm sympathy" and bespoke the generous aid of the public to those disabled veterans "who have come back to us in honor and glory."

He was to be asked Saturday to remember the wounded and disabled veterans of the world war by wearing a red tag or a flower which will be carried by groups of thirty girls and other interested workers at all convenient downtown corners. they're calling for BYRD to print it

THE other day Wyoming desired a job of printing executed with particular precision, and they turned to Georgia.

Thus reads part of their letter to the Byrd Printing Company: "Very desirous of getting quality on this job and price is not much of an object."

During the course of this entire transaction with Wyoming the most gratifying point to Byrd is that the Westerners aren't buying printing blindly; they're in

A Chance for Every Reader to Get a New Bible

In telling of her plans for the coming year, Mrs. Glenn announced that she had secured the services of J. Griffin, the south's famous nigger, in addition to the many other well known musical features already arranged. The guests included Dr. Charles A. Shelton, Jr., noted organist; Signor Emilio Efsk Troboudouros, composed of 100 men from Wesleyan College in Macon; Solon Drukenmuller; the gleeful band of the Emory university, under the direction of Dr. DeWitt Brown; and another mixed chorus of 150 voices led by A. C. Boatman, choir director of the Memorial church. In addition, it is expected that the Methodist church quartets of the city will take part in the music.

In describing the grand procession which would follow more than 60 nations could be represented, all dressed in native costumes, and requested that all foreign groups in the city willing to participate in the project communicate with the project headquarters in the Wesley Memorial church building.

G. M. Gooden, secretary for Georgia, was the principal speaker who diagnosed "diseases" which hinder the growth of the Christian Endeavor society and curb its activities and outlined some remedies.

Another speaker was John W. Abbott, ex-president of the Dallas, Texas, association, who said he had recently returned to Atlanta to take up his residence.

The music was furnished by the orchestra of the intermediet union, directed by Bill Brock.

Tactical Considerations. Any general measures the socialists may adopt for the purpose of administering a rebuke to the central government, it is asserted, will be based on tactical considerations and solely for the purpose of conserving the party's prestige with its followers.

Reports from Dresden indicate that Dr. Heinze, the reich commissioner for Saxony, is having success in recruiting a new ministry. It is expected here to succeed the deposed Zeigner ministry and that the Saxon socialists have definitely jettisoned their support of the ministry. They wish the communists. Berlin officials also view the collapse of the general strike movement throughout Saxony as an indication of the party's weakness. The withdrawal of Dr. Heinze, as promised, and curtailment of the federal military forces, however, are considered as possible for conditions to assume a normal aspect at an early date.

The situation with respect to Saxony is being watched with some interest. Knilling has not yet replied officially to Chancellor Stresemann's request that the federal military authority be restored completely.

New Disorders. On October 30, new disorders broke out in Ludwigslust, a Chancellor minister struggled with the socialist threat to quit the cabinet. The disorders were the result of a foundation and disarmed members of a mine workers regiment near Ludwigslust, Wurttemberg, while civilians armed with shotguns and rifles fired at the guards at the Ludwigslust powder

President Calvin Coolidge has issued a proclamation setting aside November 10 as the national "Forget-Me-Not Day." This date conflicts, however, with similar plans of other organizations in Georgia and Alabama and the date has been set for Saturday, November 3, in these two states.

Atlanta has asked for $10,000 with which to "carry on" for the disabled ex-service men during the next few years.

Every citizen is appealed to by the War Mothers, Gold Star Mothers and patriotic civic organizations and women's clubs to observe the day.

RUNAWAY AUTO IMPERILS LIVES OF 4; ONE HURT

Forsyth, Ga., October 30.—(Special.)—A runaway, in which four persons were painfully injured and several others narrowly escaped death, occurred today at the home of Gwin King, about two miles from town, on the Winston-Salem road. Mrs. Gwin King was accompanied in the car by her baby son; Mrs. Jennie King and Mrs. J. K. Zellner, and her only daughter, Mrs. King, who was driving, and taken the car to her home, which is situated upon an elevation of between five and ten feet above the main road, and left it for a moment to go in the house, leaving the engine running. In some way the lever went in gear, and the car started down toward the road. Mrs. Zellner, jumped out of the car with one of the babies, and fell, injuring her foot. The baby was not hurt. The other occupants were unable to get out of the car, which collided with a telephone post breaking it off, and plunged on into a ditch. One of the occupants were hurt, the telephone pole checking the momentum of the car. Mrs. Zellner was taken to a physician, who stated that the injured person would require some weeks in recovering.

Jane Hedden Hat Pattern

No. 2250.

This model cleverness of design saves material and labor and makes an unusually clever hat. The crown is fitted, but one straight piece of velvet makes the crown and the wide brim. The crown is draped at the side. One hand-drawn flower forms the only additional trimming. For street wear the hat may be in dark shades. Made in pastel or dress shades it becomes a love-dance hat. French blue, melon green, bittersweet, chautrouse or jade green are a few of the color possibilities for dress wear.

Material Required.
1-4 yards 18-inch material, 1-4 yard for flowers, 1 cap pressed crown, 2 yards brace wire, 8-9-yard elastic or buckram, 1 cap lining.

gazine. This menacing development is on a front hitherto quiet. The communist disorders occurred at Schwerin, in Mecklenburg-Schwerin, where communists bombed the army barracks as troops were marching to the city. Many were injured, but hundreds of windows in the vicinity were shattered.

Meanwhile Stresemann faced a savage battle in Berlin. Following his ultimatum, that the chancellor must apologize for sharpening the Saxon cabinet, socialists summoned a meeting for Wednesday to decide whether they will allow members of their party to remain in cabinet.

The chancellor has offered the ambiguous explanation that his orders regarding Saxony had not been fulfilled, and that the onset of the crisis was not his fault, but premature. Signs increase that his cabinet is in danger.

Strike Begins.

Despite protestings by General von Fritsch, federal commander in Saxony, a general strike began in Dresden Tuesday and spread to smaller cities.

It is not known reliably that the government's hasty course in Saxony resulted from the news that Bavaria intended to establish a new government. The cabinet had not yet decided against the reds would possibly prosecute the southern group. There are signs, however, that Bavaria has no movement of the Bavarian fascists and storm troops posted along the Rurine frontier was reported Tuesday, but have not advanced. It is considered possible that Bavaria may be awaiting the outcome of the present election before taking action, that the presence of the troops causes increasing alarm here.

"This kind of talk is merely likely to hamper the negotiations proceeding on the proposals recently submitted by the German government," he said. "I strongly deny having received such instructions."

AMERICAN DELEGATES

Washington, October 30.—(By the Associated Press).—The request that the United States government send Americans to sit on the expert committee for the study of the reparations problem will be complied with promptly under the limitations set out by Secretary Hughes in his correspondence with the German government.

Although no official notice of the agreement on the plan has reached Washington, it was made known today by the German press. The attitude of Premier Poincaré of France has not served to prevent the carrying out of the project. It has been known for some time that the German government all along that only an advisory study of the situation was proposed.

In a recent correspondence with Lord Curzon Secretary Hughes also made it clear that in approving the selection of American experts for the committee the United States government was not accepting official representation in that capacity. Until the state department has received the German reply, the committee formed of the plan, as to the proposed in London and Paris, the process by which the American membership will be selected cannot be outlined.

American membership on the proposed commission of experts to examine into Germany's capacity to pay reparations was one of the points on which the Americans were against the league of nations and foreign entanglements. If it is to be the confidence of the American people that the American government property back to him and reimburse him for his expenditures in addition to the rental already paid. He figured it at $200 a month.

Morse said, "a loss to the government of $200,000 and a gain to me of $200,000." He said he was sure that that I could not afford to do it."

Morse asserted that he told Cramer that the subject were abandoned it would create a scandal in Missouri because the people at Excelsior Springs had assisted in finance the project and that he would be charged with having pulled off some crooked deal."

Original Value.

Major General O'Ryan, general counsel for the committee, read into the record an affidavit, sworn to by Morse, in which he stated that the original plant at only $35,000. Morse told the committee he would be willing to have another appraisal made and to refund any difference there might be between the sum fixed by the appraisers and that paid by the government. He said that he would like to see the government one and the two to select a third.

Throughout his examination, Morse was evading questions in his own way and going to detailed explanations. After Senator Reed and Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, had asked him a number of questions he was permitted to tell his story in his own way.

When Morse concluded General O'Ryan made this statement for the record:

"I told Mr. Morse, who was upon the stand this morning, that the purpose of the lengthy examination of him and the questions asked by members of the committee was not for the purpose of reflecting upon his integrity, but because all concerned in the investigation were alert to bring out the manner in which trusted representatives of the government were conducting their business. It was understood that he was entrusted to them in this work of aiding the disabled soldiers and that we had not intended by this examination to reflect upon him. T. S. Prescott in New York

The marriage of Miss Susan Hamilton Baxter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perkins Baxter, of New York, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., and Thomas Slade Prescott, of Atlanta, was solemnized Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Church of the Transfiguration, in New York.

A large gathering of relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Randolph Roy. Decorations at Church.

Handsome palms, green foliage and smilax were used in the decorations of the church. The wedding party stood before the altar which was effectively arranged with palms, white massive cathedral candelabra holding white burning candles added a picturesque glow to the scene.

The ushers were John H. Carpenter, Jr., John M. Morgan Thomas, Edward Baxter Overton, Gerald Carson Howe, John Dewey, Mortimer H. Richardson, Charles Richardson and Howard E. Jackson. Calvin Prescott, brother of the groom, was the best man.

Charming Bride.

The bride was charming in her wedding gown, a handsome model of white velvet. The skirt was draped at one side and confined with a brilliant ornament, while the simply fashioned bodice was also draped and designed with the bateau neckline. Her wedding veil of tulle was caught at her hair by a coronet of rare lace. She carried a white prayer book, showered with lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott departed following the ceremony for a wedding trip to Havana, Cuba, after which they will reside in Atlanta.

Well-Known Families.

Mrs. Prescott is a social favorite, and a beautiful young girl. She is an accomplished musician, and has traveled extensively.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perkins Baxter, of New York, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., and sister of Miss Eliza Perkins Baxter.

Mr. Prescott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Prescott, and a brother of Calvin Prescott, Jr.

He was educated at Tech High and the Georgia School of Technology, where he took the civil engineering course. He is a member of the Chi Psi fraternity and is prominently connected with the Southeastern Underwriters' association. He is a member of the Druid Hills Golf club and very prominent in the social and athletic worlds, being ranked as one of the leading golf players of Atlanta.

His mother, as Miss Sallie Hunnicutt, is a belle and beauty, and is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hunnicutt, prominent and constructive pioneer residents of Atlanta.

Mr. Prescott's father is among the leading insurance men of the country.

Mr. Prescott is a grandson of Mrs. Alfred Prescott, of Atlanta, a member of the Slade family, of Columbus, among the most prominent and aristocratic families of Georgia colonial history.

A nephew of Miss Helen Prescott, Alfred Prescott, Edgar Hunnicutt and Mrs. Will Drake.

Atlanta Invention Proves Great Aid To Bridge Players

Mr. J. P. Stevens of the J. P. Stevens Engraving Company has invented a little machine about the size of a watch that will automatically show who has the next deal, in any four-handed game of cards, where a score is in use.

The instrument is placed on the score keeper's pad, where each player can see it, and without any error it will show whose deal comes next during the entire progress of the game.

This article is having a large sale, also it has only recently been offered to the public. As a result of a National Advertising program, orders are coming in for it from all parts of the United States.

They are now on exhibition at 103 Peachtree Street and 47 Whitehall Street.

The price is $2.50—just the thing for bridge prizes and a useful Christmas present.—(adv.)

Miss Hardy Honors Miss Ruth Palmer.

Miss Sarah Hardy was hostess at a surprise handkerchief shower at her home in Inman park recently in honor of Miss Ruth Palmer, who is leaving Atlanta to make her home in Montgomery.

Halloween decorations were used, and in a Halloween contest, Miss Claire Hunnicutt won first prize, a pair of hand-painted candles, and Miss Laura Mae Roughton won the consolation, a small hand-painted perfume bottle. Miss Hardy was assisted in entertaining by her mother and sister-in-law, Mrs. Lollie Hardy.

Among those invited were Misses Palmer, Sarah Holbrook, Ruby Holbrook, Louise Hayes, Fox Varborough, Ella Mae Coop, Dot Bennett, Tullie Fishback, Laura Mae Roughton, Katherine Ellis, Claire Hunnicutt, Helen Anselme, Eleanor Farlinger and Elizabeth Bell.

Camp Fire Leader Is Complimented.

Miss Florence Heintz, of New York, director for the Camp Fire Girls, was the central figure at a lovely tea at which Mrs. Frank T. Mason was hostess to the members of the Camp Fire Council Tuesday afternoon at stonehenge, her handsome home in Druid Hills.

A lavish arrangement of chrysanthemums was used throughout the house. The guests were received in the Oriental room which was decorated with lavender chrysanthemums in antique vases. Tea was served from a table overlaid with a fluted cloth and centered with a silver basket filled with yellow chrysanthemums enfolded by silver candlesticks holding unshaded yellow tapers.

In addition to the members of the council, the following were present: Mrs. Plato Durham, Mrs. Charles T. Phillips, Mrs. William Hoyt, Miss Margaret Hoyt, Mrs. Robert Harvey, Mrs. Charles Northern, Mrs. Annie Foster, Miss Isoline Hood, Mrs. Frank Logan, Mrs. Fred Mason, Miss Marjorie Estes and Miss Louise Estes, Mrs. William Schley Howard and others.

BRILLIANT HALLOWEEN BALL GIVEN AT CAPITAL CITY CLUB

Occasion Marks Opening Of Club's Winter Season

The brilliant dinner-dance given on Halloween eve at the Capital City club Tuesday evening marked the formal opening of the winter season at this popular club, and assembled several hundred members of Atlanta society who dined at 8 o'clock and danced 'til the early morning hours. The exquisite evening gowns worn by the handsome women added charm and color to the picture.

The ballroom was artistically decorated with handsome palms used as a background for the elegantly appointed tables placed around the outer edge of the room. Each table was adorned with a small basket of yellow garden flowers and silver candlesticks held yellow lighted tapers. Halloween suggestions and attractive favors for each guest adorned the tables. The chandeliers and side walls were decorated with graceful ropes of smilax and pedestal baskets of yellow chrysanthemums outlined the side walls.

Congential Parties.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Dunbar had in their party Mr. and Mrs. John E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Berry Collins, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Moeckel.

Stewart Harris entertained Mr. and Mrs. Joel C. Harris, Jr., Miss Katherine Haverty and Chandler Harris, III.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Perkins' party included Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wardlaw, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barnwell, and Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Harris. Forming a congenial party were Miss Mary Sadler, Miss Arabelle Dudley, John Stewart, Joe Walker and Bernard Neal.

Mr. and Mrs. George Caldwell Spier entertained Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle Dinkler, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Pierce, Miss Dorothy Halre and C. J. Grant.

Dining with Mr. and Mrs. J. Kennon Perry were Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Merriam and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Massengale.

The members of the Ivory club, including Joe Duckworth, Jack Sharp, Nesbit Marye, Dan Conklin, Charles Tuller and Robert Watkins had as their guests Misses Mary Tuller, Erskine Jarnagin, Adelaide and Katherine Cannady, of Virginia, who are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Dudley Cowles.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Darby entertained Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Shepherd, Dr. and Mrs. Guy Ayer and Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Blackburn.

Dining together were Mr. and Mrs. Julian Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. McRae French, Mr. and Mrs. William Akers, Mr. and Mrs. John Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tedger, Mrs. Thomas L. Bryan, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Eugene Harrington.

Mrs. Collier Will Give Luncheon Today

Mrs. Carolyn Collier will entertain at luncheon today at the Capital City club. Covers will be placed for Mrs. Collier, Mrs. Water L. Adair, Mrs. K. Stallings, Mrs. Margaret Perkins and Miss Anne Jarrett.

Mrs. Collier will entertain her guests at "Blossom Time" at the Atlanta theater following the luncheon at the club.

Georgia Student In Grand Opera.

Madame Helena Gagliasso, formerly Miss Helena Graham Wait, of Sturgis, Mich., and a student at Brenau college, Gainesville, Ga., is now singing in grand opera at the Municipal theater in Santiago, Chili. She received her first vocal training from the late Mrs. Leslie Southgate Simons in the Brenau conservatory and since that time has studied with the leading artists of America and Europe.

Madame Gagliasso is a young woman with a charming personality and possesses an exquisite coloratura soprano voice of rare quality, and is gifted with an unusual dramatic temperament.

Brenau conservatory has contributed many artists to musical America as well as the leading foreign countries, all of whom she is justly proud. This noted institution has been a leader in bringing the south to the front in the musical development of the world.

Pupils in Recital This Evening.

Erin Farley will present the following pupils in a song recital Wednesday night at 8:15 o'clock in his large studio in the Haynes building, 212 Auburn avenue. The public is invited. Miss Virginia Martin, Miss Myrtle Crossland, Coleman Kimbro, Leslie Blackwell, Miss Marion Hope at the piano.

Elaborate Reception Will Be Given Dr. and Mrs. Porter

The members of the Second Baptist church will entertain at an elaborate reception Monday evening, November 12, in the assembly room of the Sunday school, in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Alford Porter, who leave November 14, for St. Louis to make their future home.

Dr. Porter has been pastor of the Second Baptist church for the past eight years and both he and Mrs. Porter have been an inspiration and everlasting influence not only to the entire membership of the church but to countless friends and admirers. They have taken an active part in Halloween Party At U. S. Hospital.

Halloween will be observed today at the United States Veterans' hospital No. 48, Peachtree road, at which time the committees working among the disabled buddies will cooperate in carrying out the Halloween idea.

A very unusual and interesting program has been prepared, and each committee member has been requested to show his interest in the party by being in attendance. The program will begin at 7:00 o'clock and from that hour until 10:00 o'clock interesting events will take place.

Enlisted Men Will Hold Party.

The enlisted men of the Twenty-second regiment will entertain their families and friends at a large and elaborate party on Halloween night. All the guests will be in fancy dress, and prizes will be offered for the most appropriate costume as well as the funniest costume. The season's colors will be used in the decorations and an abundance of pumpkins, corn stalks and autumn leaves combined with flags will make a picturesque setting.

The music will be furnished by the regimental orchestra. During the intermission a special feature will be the singing by the Army Four. These young men have quite a name for themselves by their high-class music and receive many calls for their service.

The men who compose the Army four are Sergeant James Averett, tenor; Private R. W. Barnett, pianist and baritone; Private Wilbur B. Cawthorn, tenor; Private Charles Hames, bass. The dancing will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Much interest is being shown in the pinocle tournament, which has been going on at the Service club during the week, and the finals are now being played. It is expected that it will be finished during this week, no names of the contestants have been so far declared in the lead.

Halloween Party At Hospital 48.

The members of the family at the American Red Cross hospital No. 48 will be entered a most elaborate party on Halloween night. The decorations will be most unique, as all organizations are acting together to make this a long-remembered affair.

The men of the twenty-second regiment will contribute to the pleasure of the evening, as the orchestra will sing, and the army four will sing. Fortune telling and many games will make merry during the evening. The junior league has sent the favors and the prizes, and delicious refreshments will be served during the evening.

Miss Ella Lee Cobb will be in charge of the program, assisted by the members of the American Legion auxiliary post No. 1. Members of all organizations assisting in the work at the hospital are always welcome guests.

Halloween Dance To Be Given At Belvedere

An interesting event of this evening will be the Halloween party and dance in the ballroom at the Belvedere apartments, on West Peachtree. The party will assemble the residents of the apartment and a group of invited guests.

Orchestra will render the music and Halloween suggestions will be carried out in the decorations.

Miss Jarnagin Is Hostess.

Miss Erskine Jarnagin was hostess at an informal bridge-tee Tuesday afternoon at her home on West Eleventh street in compliment to Miss Lera Finley, of Williamsburg, Ky., the charming guest of Miss Elizabeth Kontz.

Baskets and vases of yellow chrysanthemums were used in effective arrangements throughout the apartment reception rooms. Tea was served at the small tables. The honor guest was presented a hand-painted powder box. The winner of top score was awarded a hand decorated rouge receptacle, while the consolation prize was a novelty bottle of perfume.

Young People Hold Party.

A very lovely event of last Friday night was the Halloween masquerade given by the young people of St. Paul's church at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. O. White on Grant street. The guests included members of the Epworth league, the Philaetha class and the Baraca class.

Receiving the guests were Hilly, D. A. Hutchinson, G. W. Blankinship, C. W. Moreland, A. S. Howard and Hugh Timms, all costumed as ghosts. Mrs. D. A. Hutchinson was in charge of the entertaining. Assisting her were Misses Mary Rims, Josephine Smith and W. P. White.

A feature of much enjoyment was the telling of ghost stories in a dimly-lighted room. Miss Evelyn Coppedge was leader of this. Throughout the evening a pumpkin contest was in progress. Prizes were won by W. P. White and Hugh Timms. Much entertainment was also afforded by the telling of fortunes. Two very elaborately draped booths were provided and these were occupied by Mrs. Hilly and Mrs. Hugh Timms, costumed as witch and gypsy.

Refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, were followed by a marshmallow toast. This detail was in charge of Miss Catherine Hopkins. Miss Mary Binns and Mrs. G. W. Blankinship.

Dr. and Mrs. Pearce Will Give Tea.

Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Pearce, of Brenau college, Gainesville, have invited all former students of Brenau college to be their guests for tea on Monday afternoon, November 5, in the banquet hall of the Atlanta Woman's club.

Acceptance must be sent to Mrs. Omar Elder, Hemlock 0601, by Friday.

DAILY CALENDAR OF SOCIAL EVENTS

Mrs. Robert Adger Smythe will entertain at a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Frederick Pratt.

Mrs. John T. Toler will give a luncheon in compliment to Mrs. Robert E. Hall, Mrs. Theodore Tiller and Mrs. Philie Clancy.

Mrs. George Napier will entertain at a reception in honor of her guest, Mrs. McKenzie, of Augusta.

Halloween ball at the Piedmont Driving club.

The Atlanta Athletic club will entertain at a Halloween ball.

Mrs. Carolyn Collier will entertain at luncheon today at the Capital City club.

Mrs. Alma Garrett Ware will entertain the Junior members of her music class at a Halloween party this afternoon from 3 till 5 o'clock.

A Halloween dance will be given this evening at the Belvedere apartments.

This evening, at 8 o'clock, the Atlanta lodge of the Theosophical society invites its members and friends to a Halloween party.

The Formwalt Parent-Teacher association will give a Halloween party today at 2:30 o'clock at the school.

The members and friends of the Hurst Dancing club will be entertained with a Halloween ball this evening.

A Halloween party will be given by the Atlanta Business and Professional Women's club at Spiller's park at 6 o'clock this evening.

The first of the annual series of benefit concerts given each year for worthy local charities will be held at the new auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's club this evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Miss Rosalind Lunsford will compliment Miss Molly Wight Harrell, a bride-elect, with a matinee party.

Mrs. Lawrence Willett will give a bridge-tee at her home on Piedmont avenue for Miss Lera Finley, of Williamsburg, Ky., the guest of Miss Elizabeth Kontz.

Erin Farley will present four advanced pupils in a song recital at his studio in the Haynes building Wednesday evening at 8:15 o'clock.

The West End Community club will give its opening dance on this evening at the corner of Gordon and Lee streets. All of the college and fraternity dancing set are cordially invited.

The marriage of Miss Fay Douglas Tate and Jesse Albert Barrett will take place at 3 o'clock at St. Philip's church.

Mrs. Dunbar Is Complimented.

A pretty compliment to Mrs. Leland Dunbar, who before her recent marriage was Miss Catherine Green, was a Halloween tea given by Mrs. S. J. Milton on October 27 at the home on Fifth street.

The reception rooms were made lovely by the effective arrangement of fall flowers in shades of orange, mauve, Halloween motifs and the soft glow of burning tapers.

The tea table was covered with Halloween tapestry. In the center a black compotier held autumn fruits. Encircling this were orange tapers burning in black holders and small compotiers of mints and nuts.

Twenty of Mrs. Dunbar's friends were invited.

Mrs. Alexander Will Honor Ohio Visitor

Mrs. William Alexander will entertain Thursday at her home on Orme Circle in compliment to Mrs. A. E. Bible, of Urbana, Ohio, who is the guest of Mrs. J. W. Rawlings.

Mrs. Bible has been entertained at a series of delightful affairs during her visit.

After their return from Cuba they will be at home at 2121 Pearl place, Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. Allen Weds Mr. Meeks.

The marriage of Mrs. Addie Allen and D. R. Meeks, of Jacksonville, was a very pretty affair of October 29, at the bride's home.

Mrs. Meeks is prominently connected with the American Railway Express company and has many friends in Georgia and Florida where he has worked.

Mrs. Meeks is the charming daughter of Mrs. E. E. Griffin, of College Park.

After their return from Cuba they will be at home at 2121 Pearl place, Jacksonville, Fla.

Halloween Dance At Segadio's Hall.

The Segadio club will give a Halloween dance Thursday evening at Segadio's hall. The hall will be elaborately decorated for the occasion. The one hundred members and their lady friends will act as hosts. The members of the Masonic club dances held at Segadio's hall are invited. Warner's Seven Aces will render the music.

Listening In On Women--

NOVICES IN PUBLICITY

BY LOUISE DOOLY

The unity of women's work in organization is in no way more strikingly illustrated than in the similarity a club woman finds in almost any city she visits, between the program of work any certain club in that city is carrying on and the work of the corresponding club in her own home town.

It makes her feel almost as much at home to walk into such a club as it does to find in the strange city the church of her faith, which is the same at home and abroad, yesterday, now and forever.

The Business and Professional Women's club of Asheville was the first large organization of women in this very forward city, which has all kinds of clubs and a city federation, to convene for fall and winter work. They had their first meeting at a banquet at Kenilworth inn, when the mayor and other city officials and the heads of Kiwanis, Rotary and other civic clubs were guests.

The speeches had hardly just begun when, to a stranger, things began to happen that were just like home.

First, it was made apparent that the club's educational program was its pet work.

Then it was the speech of the mayor that sounded to a stranger remarkably familiar, for when he heard of the splendid list of things the business and professional women, without any blare of trumpets, had already done and are on the way to do, he was like many other mayors, and just plain citizens who are supposed to know something about their town--he was perfectly amazed that such a club should be functioning so well and he not know about it.

"Why don't you let Asheville know what you are doing? And why haven't you a representative on the community chest executive committee? All the clubs doing civic work are on the committee. Why didn't you demand representation?"

He was almost peevish about it, and positively scolded the smiling women gathered around who had quietly been attending to their own business and modestly--too modestly, in the mayor's opinion--reaching out of their own committee to help in other people's business.

(In fact, in parentheses it may here be stated that while the organized women of Asheville are really doing things, the organized women of Atlanta could teach them a lot about publicity.)

The help the Business and Professional club has given outside its own confines has not been inconsiderable, even though it has been, according to Atlanta standards, very poorly advertised.

The club this year, for instance, took in more than $1,600 from a lecture they sponsored by Maude Boyden, noted English woman; and one of the things they are doing with the money is to provide a cooking teacher to work in cooperation with the director for community schools in this county, which means schools for the teaching of adult illiterates.

Anybody who knows anything about such teaching knows that while reading and writing are a God-send to grown people who missed the opportunity of learning in their youth, no such common sense and valuable is it to give these people an intelligent idea of the selection, nutritive value, and preparation of plain foods.

In accordance with the policy of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women, with which the Asheville club, like those in Atlanta, is affiliated, the Asheville club has visited and recommends the business college here, which is one of three accredited schools in the state. Business school graduates, which the entrance requirements are below par, are given neither recommendation nor countenance by federated business and professional women.

Direct contact with teachers in the high school puts the club members in touch with students who need encouragement or help to finish, or guidance as to their after-school days.

As evidence of the club's cooperative spirit, there is its membership in the chamber of commerce and city federation of women's clubs, its holding of seventeen shares in the woman's club house projected, and its promotion of the "moonlight" or community school.

The club members volunteer work at buying stock in the local building and loan association, this method brought about by one of the members who is a bank officer. In Asheville, as in Atlanta, only one woman yet holds a bank office.

One of the club's two women lawyers is chairman of the club's committee on legislation, through the influence of which committee such influence has been brought to bear as kept the nurses' examining board of this state in the hands of the nurses when the movement was made recently to put the board under control of the doctors. The Asheville club claims a "fair" success in its endorsement of or objections to other bills, and a "fair" success is as good as the organized women in the south anywhere can boast so far.

An active member of the Asheville club is the operator of the Allandale shop, who has for thirty years conducted this exchange of the handicrafts of the women and children in western North Carolina mountains. She has at the same time done splendid service in calling such attention to the possibilities of these people as to promote a real industry in their crafts. The Asheville club claims the exchange in this service feature of her business.

The club members volunteer work of the summer camp of the Y. W. C. A. in the moonlight schools that are fighting illiteracy, and in other activities. Real and substantial charity is also a part of their program, and yet they manage to get together many times a year purely to frolic.

The variety of the professions and kinds of business in which the members are engaged will be suggested in just these: An osteopath, two lawyers, assistant bank cashier, county director of community schools, registered nurses, shop proprietors and teachers. Among these last is Mrs. Crosby Adams, nationally known exponent of a unique system of music teaching for children.

There is an average attendance of forty-five members at meetings. The treasurer's report for the past year showed $2,348 in receipts and $1,985 in disbursements. A strong movement is on foot to raise the dues, now only $5 a year, to $10 or $15 in order to avoid the necessity of money-making methods for which the busy women members have not the spare time and to which most of them believe they should not, as business women, give their sanction.

Witchery, Mystery and Good Cheer;
Keynote of Halloween Season

Miss Juanita Daniel, charming student at Woodberry school, is posed in a fascinating costume suggestive of the spirit of the Halloween season.

By Bessie S. Stafford.

"Looking Glass, Looking Glass, on the wall,
Who in the Land is the Fairest of all?"

Halloween customs--centuries old--will be abroad in the land tonight. It is the time of witchery, mystery and good cheer. Every hamlet, city and countryside is decorated with wind-swept carpets of colorful autumn leaves, which add a note of artistic beauty to this wonderful season of the year.

When the clock strikes the witching midnight hour, pretty maidens will look over their left shoulders into a mirror in search of their sweet-heart's face. If I am not entirely mistaken as to human nature, and I don't believe I am, "Prince Charming" will be certain to be there, and return the lovelight that "lies in woman's eyes."

Perhaps your mirror, girls and boys, will reveal even more signs of the enchantment of a fascinating love story than a mere mortal like me could ever project.

Perhaps if we search the eastern skies when the harvest moon rises late tonight, mayhap we will see witches who have ridden millions and trillions of miles on broomsticks to sweep the cobwebs from her smiling countenance. All the world may turn topsy-turvy when this takes place, and it will be a signal for every person who really enjoys the Halloween spirit and revelry, to begin the fun and frolic.

Masking figures on meriment bent, will roam the streets of our fair city, their costumes befitting the occasion.

Grimacing pumpkin faces, through which gleam dim, and weird lights, fierce-looking black cats, their backs arched to high Heaven, and hobgoblins, will make their annual appearance.

Shoe boxes will once again be pressed into service and converted into jack-o'-lanterns for the very little folk who will stage a sidewalk parade with these attractive symbols, typical of the mystic charm and make-believe days of happy childhood.

Mysterious rings at the doorbell and numberless other mischievous pranks, known only to the boys and girls of today, will add gaiety to this evening's celebration. Apple bobbing and fortune telling games will be featured at parties where real gypsies possessing occult power will forecast the future of many a girl and boy.

Looking into a deep well of fortune, where one must needs go alone if she would find her sweetheart, faithful, will carry the trembling maiden into the arms of her true love.

It all sounds most thrilling and fascinating, and there are many of us who have not forgotten the alluring appeal Halloween made to us in our youth.

The debutantes and subdebs of society will dance with the spirit of the times at the Halloween ball at the Piedmont Driving club. Their daintily slipped twinkling feet will keep perfect time to inspiring music. It is the official presentation of the debutantes and will bring out a representative gathering of Atlantans. The lovely white ballroom will be decorated with autumn foliage, yellow and white chrysanthemums, and the lights will be shaded with Jack-o'-lanterns and golden pumpkins.

Another festive scene will be presented at the East Lake Country club, today's want ads.

D. A. R. Marker
Is Unveiled on Bankhead Highway

Every Georgian will be interested in the ceremonies which marked the unveiling of the D. A. R. marker near Campground at the "Center of the World," in Hartwell, Ga., on the Bankhead highway Thursday, October 25.

Mrs. R. K. Rambo is commissioner for Georgia for the Bankhead highway, and Mrs. Albert T. Thornton is woman commissioner for the National highway.

Mrs. B. C. Teasley presided at the exercises, which were opened with prayer by Rev. J. H. Barton.

The principal address of the occasion was the speech of acceptance for the edifice delivered by D. C. Alford. A. N. Alford spoke for the Bankhead highway, of which he is a director and on the side of which the beautiful marker is erected in sight of the thousands of tourists who traverse this route every month.

He expressed the highest appreciation of the labor of the D. A. R., assuring them that proper notice and publicity would be given through the medium of the highway department.

The exercises closed with an effective benediction by Rev. Barton and a few appropriate remarks by Mrs. Teasley, who expressed to all her appreciation on behalf of the committee of which she was chairman. The other members were Mrs. J. L. Massey, Mrs. McAlpin Thornton, Mrs. D. C. Alford, Mrs. Steve Skelton and the regent, Mrs. T. L. Matheson.

The Atlanta Junior Music club will have its next regular meeting on November 10, instead of November 3, at Cable hall from 3:00 to 4:00 o'clock.

DAILY CALENDAR OF WOMEN'S MEETINGS

The meeting of the Wednesday Morning Study club will be held at the home of Mrs. W. A. Albright, 120 Oakdale road today.

The North Side Embroidery club will meet with Mrs. I. T. Catron, 220 Ponce de Leon avenue, today at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. A. W. Harrington will lead the meeting of the Atlanta Truth Center at its regular weekly meeting this morning at Carnegie library at 11 o'clock.

E. E. Trader
Will Direct
Great Kirmess

Plans are being perfected for the production of the great Kirmess which will be presented at the city auditorium November 23 and 24, under the auspices of the Atlanta Woman's club, with more than a thousand people taking part. The Atlanta Woman's club has engaged the services of E. E. Trader as director for this big event and rehearsals have already begun.

Mr. Trader has given the Kirmess in practically all the large cities of the United States and has always met with the greatest successes. He will personally direct the show here and all rehearsals and there is no doubt that the great Kirmess will prove a brilliant and spectacular event.

The Kirmess is being given for a cause that appeals to every one in this community--the Atlanta Woman's club. "Anything that benefits this organization will receive the hearty support of the city," said Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, general chairman, "and when an entertainment as magnificent as the Kirmess is presented the success of the undertaking is certain." Mrs. Price-Smith is extremely gratified over the splendid cooperation the committee is receiving in arranging the cost for this production.

Numerous notables, newspapers and prominent people have endeavored to describe the Kirmess, and the nearest they can come to a true description is that it is a combination of light opera, grand opera, musical comedy, hippodrome, ancient and modern, all in one. It is a dancing pictorial of living pictures, a maze of color and flowers, beautiful lighting effects and gorgeous costumes. The cast will range from little tots in the Peter Pan court scene to the elder people in the opera of Carmen. High school boys and girls, debutantes, sub-debs, college girls and boys, young married couples and even a few grand-parents will be seen in this production. A good time is in store for all participating in the great Kirmess.

Vacancies in Classes
At Woman's Club.

Mrs. T. G. Delph, chairman of the vocational classes of the Atlanta Woman's club, announces that there are still a few vacancies to be filled. The millinery class under Mrs. Mae Bailey will specialize in satin, taffeta and lace hats. The classes in interior decorations will feature Christmas novelties. For any further information call Mrs. Delph, Ivy 6389.

GOOD HEALTH SECRET OF BEAUTY

Beauty lies in the care a woman bestows upon herself and in keeping at bay those dread ailments peculiar to her sex, which drag her down and leave telltale traces upon her countenance. Sparkling eyes, the elastic step and a clear complexion never accompany organic troubles. Distressed expressions, a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude, headaches, and mental depression are the telltale symptoms of women's ailments. Women so troubled should not lose a day in taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, the most successful remedy known to overcome women's ills and restore health and beauty. (adv.)

Tech Woman's Club Honors Faculty With Reception

A beautiful social event of Tuesday evening was the annual reception given by the Tech Woman's club in the Y. M. C. A. of the school in compliment to the faculty and new members of the club.

The rooms where the guests were received were elaborately decorated in the Halloween colors.

Punch was served from two bowls embedded in similar, and yellow chrysanthemums. Delightful music was furnished during the reception hours by the Tech orchestra.

Receiving the guests were the officers of the Tech Woman's club, including: Mrs. J. M. Watters, president; Mrs. E. W. Camp, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. W. Mason, recording secretary; and Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Brittain.

Mrs. Watters wore a handsome gown of white lace combined with flesh colored chiffon.

Mrs. Brittain was gowned in black lace.

Atlantans Honored At Parties In Marietta

Marietta, Ga., October 30.—(Special.)—Miss Sara Orme, of Atlanta, and her house guest, Miss Edith Gahler, of New Orleans, were the honor guests at a beautiful dinner party given by Mrs. W. B. Tate Saturday evening, at her lovely Marietta home. Autumn flowers were used in the decorations of the elegantly appointed table. A large silver bowl of marigolds and crimson Princess's Feather adorned the center, and tall brown unshaded tapers burned in the silver candlesticks at each end. Halloween cards marked the places for the guests who were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Martin, Miss Sara Orme and Bruce Woodruff, of Atlanta; Miss Edith Gahler, of New Orleans; Judge and Mrs. S. H. Sibley and William H. Sibley, of Marietta.

The large Halloween party given at the Marietta Golf club for the members on Monday evening was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. Ghosts, witches and goblins abounded; skeletons and black cats were on every hand, and Halloween tricks and stunts caused much merriment. The club was elaborately decorated in yellow and black and delightful refreshments were served. The committee in charge of this merry affair were Mrs. George Montgomery, chairman; Mrs. J. R. Brumby, Mrs. Grady Conway, Mrs. J. D. Anderson, Mrs. J. L. Turner, Mrs. J. E. Mossey and Mrs. E. L. Harris.

Miss Edith Gahler returned Tuesday from Virginia, where she has been making a series of delightful visits for the past six weeks to her home in the West. Mrs. Alice Anderson was the week-end guest of her daughter, Mrs. Trimble Johnson, in Atlanta. John H. McDonald and children, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Bostner for several days, have returned to their home in Seneca, South Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jervey, of Mobile, Ala., arrive tomorrow for a stay of several weeks with Mrs. C. M. Crosby.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Oslin, of Atlanta, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Frey.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Browne, of Atlanta, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Golder.

Miss McNeel, Sr., left for Miami, Fla., on Monday night.

A congenial party spent the week-end at the Cherokee county farm of former Governor Joseph M. Brown, and went on a possum hunt Saturday night. Those in the party from Marietta were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Bayard McIntosh, Ralph Northcutt and John Boston.

Miss Louise Berry, of Rome, who has been the guest of Mrs. Frank McNeel, has returned home.

Billie Vance returned on Monday to the Asheville Preparatory School, Asheville, N. C.

Mrs. Floyd Northcutt is spending the week-end with relatives in Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Heister and Mrs. J. J. Black, Sr., spent the week-end in Monroe. They returned on Tuesday, bringing with them Mrs. J. J. Black, Jr., and baby, who have been spending two weeks with relatives in Madison.

Mrs. Fred Appleby and daughters are the guests of Mrs. James T. Anderson this week, before leaving for their home in Oklahoma.

Harry McNeil, a student at Riverside Academy, Gainesville, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. McNeil.

Mrs. Mary Clarke Holtzclaw, formerly of Perry, but who has been making her home with her daughter, Mrs. L. B. Robeson, for some years, celebrated her ninetieth birthday on Sunday. Telegrams, notes, and flowers were showered upon this revered woman by loving friends and relatives from all over the state.

Len Baldwin left on Monday for Macon to attend the grand lodge of Masons. He has not missed a meeting in twenty years.

Cousin of King And Prince Gustav To Wed Saturday

London, October 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—The wedding of Crown Prince Gustav Adolf of Sweden to Lady Louise Mountbatten, cousin of King George, which will take place in London next Saturday, will attract more kings, queens, royal princes and princesses and diplomats and noble personages than have bowed to one another at one place since the funeral of King Edward.

The ceremony will be performed in the exclusive little chapel royal in the west end. The place is so small that after those privileged to live in court circles have found their seats there will be room under the roof for only two hundred of the invited guests. The remainder will have seats in the balcony.

Present at the ceremony will be two kings, his Britannic majesty and the king of Sweden, four queens, Mary, Alexandra, Olga of Greece and Maria of Norway and thirty princes and princesses, including the Prince of Wales and Prince Wilhelm of Sweden, the princess royal and also a long line of peers and their wives.

Will Preside at Meeting Of Child Welfare Division

Mrs. W. P. Lemmon, chairman of the child welfare division of the Atlanta Woman's club, will preside at a meeting of the committee this afternoon at the club house.

The initial meeting of the child welfare division of the Atlanta Woman's club with Mrs. W. P. Lemmon, as chairman, will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the club house, at which time Miss Amy Tapping, national welfare speaker, will address the members.

Miss Tapping is sent out from the national welfare department and is making a tour of the southern states in the interest of child welfare. Other matters of importance will be discussed at the meeting and plans will be completed for the work of the coming year.

Mrs. Lemmon urges all members to be present to hear this message, in order that they may know the needs connected with this phase of work and can enter into such activities along this line, which may be advised by the national department through its representative.

The following members constitute the advisory committee of the child welfare division: Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. Norman Sharp, Mrs. Charles Goodman, Mrs. W. H. Felton, Mrs. Norman Poole. Members of the standing committee are Mrs. Flora McNeil, Mrs. T. O. Poole, Mrs. W. H. White, Mrs. Elizabeth Winslow Bates, Mrs. Frank Nadeau, Mrs. G. A. MORE ABOUT WINDOWS AND CURTAINS.

(Copyright, 1923, in U. S. and Canada by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

When I was asked the other day if window shades were not being abolished, I answered instantly and feelingly, "No." The idea of my questioner seemed to be that they were being discarded because they were ugly. It is certainly true that they are not things of beauty, but since one of the first points to be considered in any well-ordered house is comfort, they are really an essential. Then, too, they need never be seen if they are kept rolled up under the valance during the day—at night they are hidden from view by the drawn curtains.

There are some charming variations of the conventional shades that may be used in bedrooms and living rooms. But before I speak of these I would like to say that the only shades for the bedroom are the practical dark ones. There are shades of green and mauve, tones, white on the inside, and dark outside, which should appeal to those who do not like a dark green or blue shade. It is necessary, however, that it be possible to keep the light out of the room in which one sleeps. Naturally, I am speaking of the room one offers to a guest, for one's own room depends upon individual taste.

Fourth Bedroom.

For the bedroom a glazed chintz of a gay design is often very charming and if one is interested in picking up odd pieces of this material, this is one amusing way of using them. A few years ago I ran across a charming piece of old glazed chintz that was so tempting in price that I couldn't resist it in spite of the fact that I could think of no room in which it would quite go. Then I thought of my bedroom. I found that I had just enough to make shades. I put them up, mirrored with a narrow fringe along the bottom, the blue matching the blue in the design, and they look so lovely with the sun shining through them that I can never bear to roll them all the way up.

There are many fascinating materials being used for curtains these days. Of course the decorator of the formal apartment or house is of necessity more limited in her choice—or rather I should say that she may not wander into the realm of oddments as may the owner of the small, the quaint place. The former has wonderful tulle, brocades, velvets, and all the fascinating chintzes to choose from if an English room is to be evolved. But the latter has chintzes, sometimes tulle, and brocades, and in addition all the adorable less formal stuffs, like checked ginghams, printed and flowered organdies, and, indeed, almost all kinds of light weight dress goods from which to make her choice.

Interesting Experiments.

I suppose, as I have one myself, I am a little partial to old and quaint houses, or to little apartments done quite informally. Perhaps it is because this sort of place does not need to be treated with as much "respect" as the larger and more formal place, and because so many amusing experiments are possible. I remember a charming pair of curtains which gave me an intense desire to run away with them. They were in a quaint little room right in New York City. The owner had taken a lovely old patchwork quilt and cut it in four strips, which were used as borders to the curtains which were made of a material (I can't remember what it was) the color of unbleached muslin.

She had made little valances of the quilt and the whole effect was gay and delightful beyond words. Another material which it might not occur to one to use is a damask tablecloth. I discovered its possibilities last winter when decorating an apartment I had rented. I had some very large tablecloths that had been given me some years ago. The idea occurred to me that they would make good outside curtains. I designed the design in different on each side is of no importance as it is quite indistinct. They were dyed a lovely green and hung them unlined as outside curtains. I was really surprised with the result.

In closing I should like to give a few hints with regard to windows which everyone probably knows, but which are worth repeating. If one has a rug with many colors and a good deal of design it is usually safer to have curtains of a solid color. The inside and outside may contrast, but it is much better to have no pattern at all. Therefore don't over-decorate it. Don't ever curtain the lower half of the window leaving the upper part bare. And never hang a single curtain over a window. Always keep in mind the style of your furniture and the size of the room so that your windows may neither appear too important nor too insignificant enough to be noticed.

Atlanta Artists To Appear on Program This Evening

Atlanta's leading musicians will appear on the program this evening at the Atlanta Woman's club, which will be given for the benefit of the Atlanta Child's home.

A program of musical merit and beauty will be presented by these artists who are offering their services: Mrs. Charles Dowman, Mrs. Reilly Eakin, Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs, Mrs. L. Ella Griffith Bedard, Mrs. W. D. Griffith, Byron Warner, W. B. Griffith and Bobby North.

Mrs. Dowman will play a Chopin number, "Polonaise"; Byron Warner, tenor, will sing two groups of songs, and Mrs. Eakin, dramatic soprano, will give six numbers.

Bobby North, a charming, famous for his impersonations, will give "The Virginia Judge."

Mrs. Dobbs will play a harp solo and there will be a vocal number by Mrs. Bedard, Mr. Griffith, Mrs. Dobbs and Mrs. Griffith.

Missionary Society Holds Regular Meeting.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Gordon Street Baptist church met in regular session Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Charles G. Mitchell, president, arranged a study course in the text book, "Our Southern Baptists and Their Far Eastern Missions," by J. F. Love.

The course was taken by sixty-five of the members. W. H. Faust, pastor of the church, was the guest speaker. At the close of the class the ladies were served refreshments by a committee of Mrs. Knight, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Barber, representing circle No. 1 of the society. The next meeting is at the church next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. W. H. Gillette Is Honor Guest At Evening Party

Mrs. W. H. Gillette, of St. Augustine, Fla., the guest of her sister, Mrs. Robert A. Grier, at her home on Elmwood drive, is being entertained at a series of informal social affairs. She was the honor guest at a delightful dancing party at which Mr. and Mrs. Grier entertained Monday evening at the Mary Barnard Tea room.

The long room was festively adorned with a Halloween decorations, jack-o'-lanterns and other novelties suggestive of the celebration. Baskets filled with yellow and white chrysanthemums were placed around the room and the supper table was appointed with novelties carrying out the Halloween note.

Attractive favors were presented to the guests.

Mrs. Grier was gowned in midnight blue georgette crepe, elaborately beaded.

Mrs. Gillette's becoming gown was of black lace.

Invited to meet the honor guest were Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Boykin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holmes Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Rupert E. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Odie Clay Poundstone, Mrs. L. R. Banks, Mrs. James Carter, Mrs. J. E. McRee, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bemis, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coppedge, Mrs. Christine Barnard, Miss Florence Boykin, Miss Virginia McRee, Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith and W. Woods White.

Miss Marie Haines Will Register Pupils Thursday

Registration for the class in interior decorating, which Miss Marie Haines will conduct under the auspices of the Polytechnic club, will take place Thursday morning from 10 to 11 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. S. Rogers, 585 West Peachtree street, who is the president of the club.

The class will be held in the studio of Mrs. Rogers in the rear of her home, which is an attractive, spacious room ideally arranged for this purpose. Miss Haines will instruct in arts and crafts, furnishing of the home and the making of any decorative object one might desire.

Miss Marie Haines is the guest of Mrs. Walter C. Hill at her home on Peachtree circle.

HEARTBURN MADE LIFE A BURDEN

But Paw Paw Tonic Soon Brought Rest and Strength to Woman

"I had quite had trouble with gas in the stomach and bloating," writes Mrs. Rebecca Ziegler, of Bernhardt, Berks County, Pa. "No matter what I ate, it soured in my stomach and caused heartburn so bad that life was a burden to me. I had liver trouble very badly and could not sleep nights. I have doctored with physicians for five or six years, but none of them seemed to bring me relief."

"But I began taking Paw Paw Tonic. Now I can sleep nights. I have more ambition and strength. My food digests and my liver trouble is going. I would be very glad to recommend Munyon's Paw Paw Tonic to anyone suffering the way I was. I believe it is very good for run-down conditions."

If you are a sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach trouble; if you are continually upset from nervousness, buy a bottle of Munyon's Paw Paw Tonic at once—and just FEEL yourself improving! It costs $1 a bottle and can be bought at all first-class drug stores. Jacobs' Pharmacy Co.

Banker's Friends Elated

"Twelve years ago I became afflicted with stomach trouble which steadily became worse. I frequently became prostrated with colic attacks and bloating. My doctors wanted to operate for gall stones. I wished to avoid an operation and a long convalescence. I tried May's Wonderful Remedy with excellent results as since taking it about two years ago my trouble has entirely disappeared." It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at Jacobs' Pharmacy and druggists everywhere.—(adv.)
